starting with the origins of writing five thousand years ago with cuneiform and egyptian hieroglyphs robinson explains how these early forms developed into hundreds of scripts including the roman alphabet and chinese characters he reveals how the modern writing symbols and abbreviations we take for granted today including airport signage and text messaging resemble ancient ones much more closely than we might think the book also includes a chronology of events from 3300 bc to ad 2000 a list of titles for further reading and an index investigates famous examples of unsolved scripts and codes in an account that recalls the stories of three forefront decipherments including the egyptian hieroglyphs the maya glyphs and the minoan linear b clay tablets how to decipher the byblos script reflects the lifelong research and publications by dr jan best this volume brings together his most groundbreaking articles at the center of the work of dr best is his remarkable achievement of deciphering the byblos script this could never have been achieved without the previous reconstructions of the cretan hieroglyphic and linear a scripts which are closely related to the byblos script here are the results of 40 years of frontier research quietly carried out behind the scenes of the scientific community this publication for the first time discloses to the general public the impact of this research and makes its findings accessible to the wider public of the interested general reader and other specialists in this field it represents the type of basic research fundamental to any scientific follow up studies now in its 7th edition communication in history reveals how media has been influential in both maintaining social order and as powerful agents of change thirty eight contributions from a wide range of voices offer instructors the opportunity to customize their courses while challenging students to build upon their own knowledge and skill sets from stone age symbols and early writing to the internet and social media readers are introduced to an expansive intellectually enlivening study of the relationship between human history and communication media in an absorbing text andrew robinson explains the interconnection between sound symbol and script he discusses each of the major writing systems in turn from cuneiform and egyptian and mayan hieroglyphs to the scripts of china and japan as well as others such as the cherokee alphabet and the writing of runes full coverage is given to the history of decipherment and a provocative chapter devoted to undeciphered scripts can these codes ever be broken in this new edition of the book the author reveals the latest discoveries to have an impact on the history of writing including the tabula cortonensis showing etruscan symbols and a seal from turkmenistan that could solve the mystery of how chinese writing evolved he also discusses how the digital revolution has not despite predictions spelled doom for the printed book in addition the table of maya glyphs has been updated in a blow against the british empire khan suggests that london artificially divided india s hindu and muslim populations by splitting their one language in two then burying the evidence in obscure scholarly works outside the public view all language is political and so is the boundary between one language and another the author analyzes the origins of urdu one of the earliest known languages and propounds the iconoclastic views that hindi came from pre aryan dravidian and austric munda not from aryan s sanskrit which like the indo

European languages Greek and Latin etc are rooted in the Middle East Mesopotamia not in Europe. Hindi's script came from the Aramaic system similar to Greek and in the 1800s the British initiated the divisive game of splitting one language in two: Hindi for the Hindus and Urdu for the Muslims. These facts, he says, have been buried and nearly lost in turgid academic works. Khan bolsters his hypothesis with copious technical linguistic examples. This may spark a revolution in linguistic history. Urdu-Hindi, an artificial divide, integrates the out-of-Africa linguistic evolution theory with the fossil linguistics of the Middle East and discards the theory that Sanskrit descended from a hypothetical Proto-Indo-European language and by degeneration created dialects Urdu, Hindi, and others. It shows that several tribes from the Middle East created the hybrid by cumulative evolution. The oldest groups, Austric and Dravidian, starting 8000 B.C. provided the grammar and syntax plus about 60% of the vocabulary. S.K.T. added 10% after 1500 B.C. and Arabic/Persian 20-30% after A.D. 800. The book reveals Mesopotamia as the linguistic melting pot of Sumerian, Babylonian, Elamite, Hittite, Hurrian, Mitanni, etc. with a common script and vocabularies shared mutually and passed on to I.E.S.K.T.D.R., Arabic, and then to Hindi-Urdu. In fact, the author locates oldest evidence of S.K.T. in Syria. The book also exposes the myths of a revealed S.K.T. or Hebrew and the fiction of linguistic races, i.e., Aryan, Semitic, etc. The book supports the one-world concept and reveals the potential of Urdu-Hindi to unite all genetic elements, races, and regions of the Indo-Pakistan subcontinent. This is important reading not only for those interested to understand the divisive exploitation of languages in British-led India's partition but for those interested in the science and history of origin of Urdu-Hindi and other languages, the false claims of linguistic races, and creation history of languages and scripts, language mythology, and racism, ancient history, and fossil languages, British rule, and India's partition.
