The New York Times bestselling author Dean Koontz raises the stakes and the suspense taking his Frankenstein saga to a dynamic new level with the riveting story of a small town under siege where good and evil destruction and creation converge as the fate of the world hangs in the balance. Frankenstein: Lost Souls. The war against humanity has begun in the dead hours of the night. A stranger enters the home of the mayor of Rainbow Falls, Montana. The stranger is in the vanguard of a wave of intruders who will invade other homes, offices, every local institution, assuming the identities and the lives of those they have been engineered to replace. Before the sun rises, the town will be under full assault. The opening objective in the new Victor Frankenstein's trajectory of ultimate destruction: Deucalion, Victor's first haunted creation, saw his maker die in New Orleans two years earlier. Yet an unshakable intuition tells him that Victor lives and is at work again. Within hours, Deucalion will come together with his old allies, detectives Carson O'Connor and Michael Maddison, Victor's engineered wife Erika Five, and her companion Jocko to confront new peril. Others will gather around them, but this time Victor has a mysterious, powerful new backer, and he and his army are more formidable, their means and intentions infinitely more deadly than ever before.

In Frankenstein: Lost Souls, Dean Koontz puts a singular twist on this classic tale of ambition and science gone wrong to forge a new legend uniquely suited to our times. It is a story of revenge, redemption, and the thin line that separates human from inhuman. The work of creation has begun again. Victor Leben, once Frankenstein, has seen the future, and he's ready to populate it using stem cells, organic silicon circuitry, and nanotechnology. He will engender a race of superhumans, the perfect melding of flesh and machine, with a powerful, enigmatic backer and a secret location where the enemies of progress can't find him. Victor is certain that this time nothing can stop him. It is up to five people to prove him wrong. In their hands rests nothing less than the survival of humanity itself. They are drawn together in different ways, by omens sinister and wondrous, to the same shattering conclusion. Two years after they saw him die, the man they knew as Victor Helios lives on. As they gather at a small Montana town, old alliances will be renewed and tested from within and without. For the dangers they face will eclipse any they have yet encountered. Yet in the midst of their peril, love will blossom, and joy, and they will discover sources of strength and perseverance they have not imagined. They will need them for a monumental battle is about to commence that will require all their ingenuity and courage as it defines what we are to be and if we are to be at all.

Why a search for the soul? Many Christians assume that it is biblically faithful and theologically noncontroversial to speak of humans having a soul. Yet a wide range of biblical scholars are questioning whether we have correctly understood what the Bible means when it speaks of the soul. And contemporary neuroscience is laying more and more questions at the doorstep of the church, asking whether our human sense of self is intelligible on the basis of soul. But for thoughtful Christians following science on this point looks like caving in to reductionism while denying science gives off the odor of obscurantism. In search of the soul provides a rare opportunity to listen in as four Christian philosophers set forth their best arguments for their distinct views and then respond to each other. While each of these views calls for careful framing and patient exposition, they are labeled as follows: substance dualism (Stewart Goetz), emergent dualism (William Hasker), nonreductive physicalism (Nancy Murphy), and constitution view of persons (Kevin Corcoran). The editor introduces the debate by laying out the critical issues at stake and wraps it up by considering the implications for the Christian life, particularly hospitality and forgiveness. This is a book of timely interest to philosophers, theologians, psychologists, and pastors. Whatever conclusions readers may draw, they will find here an instructive and engaging discussion of a controversy that will not go away any time soon.

Editors Joel B. Green and Stuart I. Palmer present differing evangelical perspectives on the body and soul, mind and brain problem. Stewart Goetz on substance dualism, William Hasker on emergent dualism, Nancy Murphy on nonreductive physicalism, and Kevin Corcoran on the constitution view of persons.

These 101 true entertaining stories celebrate the laughter, love, and joy that animals bring into our lives. You'll enjoy these stories of our furry, feathered, and even scaly companions from the traditional dogs and cats to rodents, reptiles, birds, fish, and backyard friends. Pets, Pets, Pets showcases the incredible bond between humans and their pets. With each story, readers young and old will be reminded of the unique and often life-changing moments pets provide from offering comfort during tough times to making us laugh with their quirky personalities. Whether you're a proud pet owner or simply an animal lover, these touching tales will reaffirm the deep emotional connection we share with our beloved pets and the lasting impact they have on our lives. Chicken Soup for the Soul Books are 100% made in the USA and include stories from as diverse a group of writers as possible.

the cataclysmic conclusion to Koontz's brilliant reworking of the classic tale are humans composed of a material body and an immaterial soul? This view is commonly held by Christians, yet it has been undermined by recent developments in neuroscience. How much of Christian theology is built on views of humanity that modern science has proved to be untenable? Exploring what scripture and theology teach about issues such as being in the divine image, the importance of community, sin, free will, salvation, and the afterlife, Joel Green argues that a dualistic view of the human person is inconsistent with both science and scripture. Publisher's description: cf. oclc

When Victor's latest creations, an army of engineered killers, set loose in modern-day New Orleans begin to exceed his expectations and exhibit logistical and analytical skills, he plans to eliminate the entire race, a plan that backfires into humankind's ultimate nightmare.
