the assessment and treatment of sexual deviance can be very difficult tasks and it can be hard to find mentors to provide initial skills training and help in navigating the many complexities of a particular case this book presents a series of case studies from international experts in the field that depict the evidence based assessment and treatment of a variety of paraphilias intended as learning tools readers can use as models and from which they can gain insight these case studies are offered as exemplars of clinical problem solving the authors of each chapter provide research evidence that justifies treatment decisions explain their assessment strategies and case formulations and provide information about how to navigate common problems a clinician will encounter such as denial poor motivation and co morbid problems a variety of assessment instruments and treatment strategies are also illustrated both new and experienced clinicians will find this book to be an invaluable resource in their own work this book is the outcome of a research symposium sponsored by the association for educational communications and technology aect consisting of twenty four chapters including an introduction and conclusion it argues that informational content should not be the main element of education and that to provide more for learners it is necessary to go beyond content and address other skills and capabilities it also discusses the false premise that learning is complete when the information is known not when learners seek more their own directions answers and ideas the authors assert that the ability to synthesize solve problems and generate ideas is not based on specific content although education often focuses solely on teaching content further they state that content can be separated from the learning process and that instructional design and educational technology must be about the skills habits and beliefs to be learned in a global economy full of multinational firms international human resource management including expatriation career management and talent management is a growing topic in the business and management literature and in universities a thorough understanding of the adjustment of expatriates to their new environment is critical not only for selection and preparation of potential expatriates but also for the management of expatriate performance managed well expatriates can be key contributors to organizational success while abroad and even after repatriation poor understanding and management of expatriate issues on the other hand may lead to underperformance and increased turnover of expatriates and repatriates managing performance abroad summarizes and extends what is known about the topic of expatriate management and adjustment covering all the major authors and presenting a new approach to the adjustment process at present expatriate adjustment is only covered as a chapter in books on international hrm and hrd much of this literature relies on outdated concepts and evidence furthermore most business research and management publications use an expatriate adjustment model that was originally published about two decades ago this book is the first dedicated solely to the subject of expatriate adjustment enabling readers to formulate research questions and hypotheses and to develop expatriation policies and support systems that optimize the performance of expatriates it presents a re formulation of the model underlying management research about expatriate adjustment providing guidance for researchers and practitioners alike this comprehensive text provides an up to date review and critique of current theorising about sexual offending it presents the key ideas underpinning each theory in a clear and accessible manner theories are rigorously tested and evaluated and their merits are examined from both a research and a clinical point of view importantly the emphasis is on providing clear links between theory and practice and the clinical implications of the different theories and perspectives are explicitly discussed in addition a number of new ideas about the aetiology of sexual offending are presented theories of sexual offending is one of the few books to draw all of the disparate strands of theorising together and is the only one to clearly link theory to practice it will be a valuable resource for any professional working with sexual offenders such as clinical and forensic psychologists psychiatrists probation officers and social workers it will also be of interest to students of forensic and clinical psychology in the aftermath of martinson s 1974 nothing works doctrine scholars have made a concerted effort to develop an evidence based corrections theory and practice to show what works to change offenders perhaps the most important contribution to this effort was made by a group of canadian psychologists most notably donald andrews james bonta and paul gendreau who developed a treatment paradigm called the risk need responsivity rnr model which became the dominant theory of correctional treatment this approach was more recently challenged by a perspective developed by tony ward shadd maruna and others called the good lives model glm based in part on desistance research and positive psychology this model proposes to rehabilitate offenders by building on the strengths offenders possess glm proponents see the rnr model as a deficit model that fixes dynamic risk factors rather than identifying what offenders value most and using these positive factors to pull them out of crime through a detailed examination of both models theoretical and correctional frameworks the future of correctional rehabilitation moving beyond the rnr model and good lives model debate probes the extent to which the models offer incompatible or compatible approaches to offender treatment and suggests how to integrate the rnr and glm approaches to build a new and hopefully more effective vision for offender treatment a foreword by renowned criminologist francis t cullen helps put the material into context this book will be of much interest to scholars and students studying correctional rehabilitation as well as practitioners working with offenders
