piles of slain heaps of corpses reads the violence in the book of nahum against the background of the war in the democratic republic of the congo and tries to show how this violent book can be therapeutic and transformative for wounded communities here jacob onyumbe views nahum through four scholarly lenses poetic analysis study of assyrian iconography related to eighth and seventh century judah ethnographic research among survivors of war in the democratic republic of the congo and modern studies on the impact of war trauma on communities of survivors he argues that nahum uses lyric poetry so as to evoke in seventh century bce judahite audiences the memory of war and destruction at the hands of the assyrians the prophet uses poetry to evoke rather than narrate in order to bring comfort to his audience by revealing the powerful presence of god in the conditions of traumatic violence viewed thus the book of nahum cannot be dismissed as has commonly been the case among both scholars and general readers as irrelevant or merely vindictive on the contrary this book with its depiction of a vengeful god and repulsive war scenes is essential especially for traumatized communities the arabic muslim literature on muhammad s maghazi is bountiful since this book focuses on muhammad s maghazi a survey of this literature is important not only to establish the centrality of the topic in islamic thought but also to relay the uniqueness and contribution of this book to that end in this chapter i will first explore that which classical muslim narrators wrote on muhammad s maghazi and the ways they used the accounts to reflect allah s support for muhammad and the believers in the second section i will examine discussions by modern and contemporary muslims relaying how they interpret the accounts of the maghazi in particular i will discuss their articulation of the motivations and results of muhammad s military campaigns the first two sections of this chapter will thus establish the centrality of the maghazi as a literary genre as well as its importance among muslims past and present in the third section i take the discussion to non muslim scholarship i explore briefly early views on muhammad and his career by non muslims before i focus on works and arguments of key western scholars from the nineteenth century until our present day the conquest of bread by peter kropotkin is a seminal work that envisions a society where resources and wealth are equitably distributed among all individuals kropotkin critiques the existing socio economic structures that concentrate wealth and resources in the hands of a few leading to widespread poverty and inequality he argues that the means of production which have been developed through the collective efforts of past generations should be communally owned to ensure well being for all the book emphasizes the potential for abundance given the advancements in technology and production capabilities if only these resources were managed for the collective good rather than individual profit kropotkin advocates for a social revolution that would dismantle the current systems of ownership and replace them with communal management of resources he envisions a society where the needs of the people are prioritized and everyone has access to the essentials of life such as food shelter and education the text is a call to action for a radical restructuring of society emphasizing that well being for all is not a utopian dream but a feasible reality if resources are shared equitably kropotkin s work remains influential in discussions of anarchist communism and continues to inspire those seeking social and economic justice
