philosophers have discussed art or artistic practices such as poetry since ancient times but systems of art and entertainment appeared only in the modern era in the west during the 18th and 19th centuries and philosophers have largely neglected the concept of entertainment in this book andy hamilton explores art and entertainment from a philosophical standpoint he argues against modernist theory that art and entertainment are not opposites but form a loosely connected conceptual system against postmodernism however he insists on their vital differences hamilton begins by questioning the received modernist view examining artist entertainers including jane austen charles dickens louis armstrong and billie holiday entertainment he argues is by nature audience centred but so is art in a different way thus while art should pass the test of time entertainment must pass the test of its own time it has to entertain at the time it is produced art and entertainment are inter dependent concepts and must be understood together with other aesthetic concepts including criticism genius canons and design these concepts form the subject of later chapters of this book where hamilton develops a meritocratic position that is neither elitist nor populist he also addresses the contemporary charge of cultural appropriation and qualifies it an innovative feature of the book is the inclusion of dialogues with artists critics and academics that help to recast or reformulate the debate art and entertainment a philosophical exploration is essential reading for those working in art and aesthetics and will also be of interest to those in related disciplines such as cultural studies music and film studies with an interest in entertainment in 2008 the musée des beaux arts de lyon acquired a painting called the flight into egypt which was attributed to the french artist nicolas poussin thought to have been painted in 1657 the painting had gone missing for more than three centuries several versions were rediscovered in the 1980s and one was passed from hand to hand from a family who had no idea of its value to gallery owners and eventually to the museum a painting that had been sold as a decorative object in 1986 for around 12 000 euros was acquired two decades later by the musée des beaux arts de lyon for 17 million euros what does this remarkable story tell us about the nature of art and the way that it is valued how is it that what seemed to be just an ordinary canvas could be transformed into a masterpiece that a decorative object could become a national treasure this is a story permeated by social magic the social alchemy that transforms lead into gold the ordinary into the extraordinary the profane into the sacred focusing on this extraordinary case bernard lahire lays bare the beliefs and social processes that underpin the creation of a masterpiece like a detective piecing together the clues in an unsolved mystery he carefully reconstructs the steps that led from the same material object being treated as a copy of insignificant value to being endowed with the status of a highly prized painting commanding a record breaking price he thereby shows that a painting is never just a painting and is always more than a piece of stretched canvass to which brush strokes of paint have been applied this object and the value we attach to it is also the product of a complex array of social processes with its distinctive institutions and experts that lies behind it and through the history of this painting lahire uncovers some of the fundamental structures of our social world for the social magic that can transform a painting from a simple copy into a masterpiece is similar to the social magic that is present throughout our societies in economics and politics as much as art and religion a magic that results from the spell cast by power on those who tacitly recognize its authority by following the trail of a single work of art lahire interrogates the foundations on which our perceptions of value and our belief in institutions rest and exposes the forms of domination which lie hidden behind our admiration of works of art american education and culture are suffering from a terrible soul numbing imbalance in which there is an overemphasis on basic quantifiable skills and knowledge and a de emphasis of more creative areas of the humanities especially the arts and aesthetics detels indicates that the marginalization of the arts and aesthetics in american education has been caused by a hard boundaried paradigm that has come to dominate american education according to this paradigm the arts are wrongly viewed and taught as separate unconnected disciplines
