the 4th workshop on case studies in bayesian statistics was held at the car negie mellon university campus on september 27 28 1997 as in the past the workshop featured both invited and contributed case studies the former were presented and discussed in detail while the latter were presented in poster format this volume contains the four invited case studies with the accompanying discussion as well as nine contributed papers selected by a refereeing process while most of the case studies in the volume come from biomedical research the reader will also find studies in environmental science and marketing research invited papers in modeling customer survey data linda a clark william s cleveland lorraine denby and chuanhai lid use hierarchical modeling with time series components in for customer value analysis cva data from lucent technologies the data were derived from surveys of customers of the company and its competitors designed to assess relative performance on a spectrum of issues including product and service quality and pricing the model provides a full description of the cva data with random location and scale effects for survey respondents and longitudinal company effects for each attribute in addition to assessing the performance of specific companies the model allows the empirical exploration of the conceptual basis of consumer value analysis the authors place special emphasis on graphical displays for this complex multivariate set of data and include a wealth of such plots in the paper granville bantock a guide to research provides both researchers and british music aficionados an entry to documents books articles recordings and the like currently available for further study about bantock's life and music

1 the idea behind the workshop was that of calling attention to the necessity of studying long term tendencies in economic growth we believe that actual growth processes in capitalistic economies are not smooth phenomena and also that the evolution of the economy is characterized by long term fluctuations as well as by trade cycles it is now common place to argue that this point of view was revived after 1973 in consequence of the economic difficulties experienced by industrialized countries while it has a much older origin as its roots can be pushed back at least to the great depression of the 1930 s in preparing this workshop we selected two main approaches as reflected in the title of this book that have been proposed in the last ten years to deal with the causes of long term fluctuations namely the technological or neo schumpeterian approach and the social approach what follows is simply a rough characterization of the existing theoretical positions and it is not meant to be an exhaustive one the interested reader will immediately see that there are many differentiated positions by looking at the arguments contained in each contribution
