in these two volumes scholars of political science sociology and history adopt a common set of concepts to analyse patterns of change in the ideological and structural foundations of dominance in india from the colonial period to the mid 1980s departing from modernist theories these scholars set out an interactional framework of society state relations where caste class ethnicity and dominance are treated as structures and processes interacting with each other and with increasingly powerful state institutions these comparative studies provide an explanation of how state policies undermine the religious legitimacy of the hierarchical social order and at the same time facilitate the manipulation of linguistic communal caste and ethnic loyalties to diffuse class polarization the analyses show that subordinate low caste cum class groups are mounting increasingly militant challenges to the hold of the upper castes and classes over state institutions which have provided the most important avenue of social mobility in modern india provided by publisher

why do some states provide infrastructure and social services to their citizens and others do not in development in multiple dimensions alexander lee examines the origins of success and failure in the public services of developing countries comparing states within india this study examines how elites either control or are shut out of policy decisions and how the interests of these elites influence public policy he shows that social inequalities are not single but multiple creating groups of competing elites with divergent policy interests since the power of these elites varies states do not necessarily focus on the same priorities some focus on infrastructure others on social services and still others on both or neither the author develops his ideas through quantitative comparisons and case studies focusing on four northern indian states gujarat west bengal bihar and himachal pradesh each of which represents different types of political economy and has a different set of powerful caste groups the evidence indicates that regional variation in india is a consequence of social differences and the impact of these differences on carefully considered distributional strategies rather than differences in ideology geography or institutions
