excerpt from the artists of america a series of biographical sketches of american artists with portraits and designs on steel the immediate object of this series of biographical sketches is to make our artists and their works better known at home abroad this is not necessary for there they have always been better known and better appreciated than in their own country the names of such men as west allston durand and powers are a sufficient pledge of the truth of this statement while every american of taste and of national feeling is proud of our artists he blushes when this fact is told it does not reflect much credit upon us it seems to me to have it said and with too much truth too that no american artist can get bread at home till he has won fame abroad i have long believed that the insensibility of the nation to the claims of art and artists was more owing to a lack of information on these subjects than to any perhaps all other causes and i have long desired to see this want supplied with some work uniting beauty of execution and cheapness of price with authenticity of facts to secure for it general circulation artists themselves will not do it although well qualified for the task perhaps they could not do it without suffering however unjustly unkind imputations no one else seems inclined to make an attempt and i have resolved to try it myself about the publisher
