in this intellectual and literary history of american british and continental novels of realism and naturalism from 1850 to 1950 richard lehan argues that literary naturalism is a narrative mode that creates its own reality employing this strategy allows and encourages intertextuality one novel talking or responding to another this 1981 volume begins with the french revolt against naturalism in theatre and then covers the european realist movement this companion examines a number of issues related to the terms realism and naturalism the introduction seeks both to discuss the problems in the use of these two terms in relation to late nineteenth century fiction and to describe the history of previous efforts to make the terms expressive of american writing of this period the companion includes ten essays which fall into four categories essays on the historical context of realism and naturalism by louis budd and richard lehan essays on critical approaches to the movements since the early 1970s by michael anesko essays on the efforts to expand the canon of realism and naturalism by elizabeth ammons and a full scale discussion of ten major texts from w d howell s the rise of silas lapham to jack london s the call of the wild by john w crowley tom quirk j c levenson blanche gelfant barbara hochman and jacqueline tavernier courbin refer to loach as a realist or naturalist filmmaker terms which loach himself would rather substitute with authentic which to him seems a less loaded word than naturalistic or realistic so what is he a realist a naturalist or should one create a new term as has been suggested and call his filmmaking loachian to do justice to his unique style could one define such a thing as loachism rather than realism and naturalism loach's style can be regarded as a continuum within realist traditions of filmmaking from the early beginnings of cinema realism constituted an important part of the new medium critics and filmmakers alike engaged in discussions on the realist issue is cinema real does it show l the american realism and naturalism literary period lasted from roughly 1861 to 1914 it was characterized by its response to the political economic and technological changes that transformed the nation during the civil war and postbellum years some of the most well known authors in american history wrote during this time including mark twain henry james edith wharton charles w chesnutt and upton sinclair literary research and the american realism and naturalism period strategies and sources will help those interested in researching this era authors linda l stein and peter j lehu emphasize research methodology and outline the best practices for the research process paying attention to the unique challenges inherent in conducting studies of national literature each chapter covers a different type of resource general and literary reference books library catalogs print and online bibliographies scholarly journals publishing history sources contemporary journals and newspapers microform and digital collections manuscript and archival material and websites the book offers a coherent account of how contemporary research skills and resources can complement one another in helping scholars effectively deal with typical challenges they encounter in their work authors featured in the original volumes the terms realism and naturalism are considered in the context of expressing a style of american writing in relation to late 19th century fiction movements this text analyzes ten major texts from w d howell s the rise of silas lapham to jack london s the call of the wild for at least a century scholarship on realist narrative and occasional polemics against realist narrative have assumed that realism promotes the values of sameness against those of otherness and that it does so by use of a narrative mode that excludes certain epistemologies ideologies and ways of thinking however the truth is more complex than that as the essays in this volume all demonstrate realism s others examines the various strategies by which realist narratives create the idea of difference whether that difference is registered in terms of class ethnicity epistemology nationality or gender the authors in this collection examine in detail not just the fact of otherness in some canonical realist and canonical magical realist and postmodern novels but the actual means by which that otherness is established by the text these essays suggest that neither realist narrative nor narratives positioned as anti realist take otherness for granted rather the texts discussed here actively create difference and this creation of difference often occasions severe difficulties for the novels representational schema how does one represent different types of knowledge other aesthetic modes or other spaces for example in texts whose epistemology has long been seen as secular and empirical whose aesthetic mode has always been approached as pure descriptive mimesis and whose settings are largely domestic these essays all begin with a certain collision of nationalities of classes of representational matrices of religions and go on to chart the challenges that this collision presents to our ideas or stereotypes of realism or to the possibilities of writing against and beyond realism this question motivates examination of key realist or social realist texts in some of these essays by honoré de balzac george eliot franz grillparzer theodor storm gottfried keller theodor fontane wilhelm raabe maría amparo ruiz de burton henry james william dean howells charles chesnutt theodore dreiser h t tsiang alan sillitoe and richard yates however it is no less central a question in certain non realist texts which engage realist aims to a surprising degree often to debate them openly some of these essays discuss in this light fantastic magical realist and postmodern works by abram tertz paul auster alejo carpentier toni morrison gabriel garcía márquez salman rushdie and a s byatt realism becomes more than an aesthetic aim or narrative mode it becomes rather a value evoked and discussed by all of the works analyzed here in order to reveal its impact on fiction s treatment of ethnicity nationality ideology space gender and social class donald pizer presents the major critical discussions of american realism and naturalism from the beginnings of the movement in the 1870s to the present he includes the most often cited discussions ranging from william dean howells henry james and frank norris in the late nineteenth century to those by v l parrington malcolm cowley and lionel trilling in the early twentieth century to provide the full context for the effort to interpret the nature and significance of realism and naturalism during the periods when the movements were live issues on the critical scene however he also includes many uncollected essays his selections since world war ii reflect the major recent tendencies in academic criticism of the movements through introductions to each of the three sections pizer provides background delineating the underlying issues motivating attempts to attack defend or describe american realism and naturalism in particular pizer attempts to reveal the close ties between criticism of the two movements and significant cultural concerns of the period in which the criticism appeared before each selection pizer provides a brief biographical note and establishes the cultural milieu in which the essay was originally published he closes his anthology with a bibliography of twentieth century academic criticism of american realism and naturalism hilary putnam s writings have shaped epistemology ethics metaphysics philosophy of physics and mathematics and philosophy of mind this volume illustrates his willingness to revisit past arguments above all how to articulate a theory of naturalism which acknowledges that normative phenomena form an ineluctable part of human experience haunting realities naturalist gothic and american realism is an innovative collection of essays examining the sometimes paradoxical alignment of realism and naturalism with the gothic in american literature to highlight their shared qualities following the golden age of british gothic in the late eighteenth century the american gothic s pinnacle is often recognized as having taken place during the decades of american romanticism however haunting realities explores the period of american realism the end of the nineteenth century to discover evidence of fertile ground for another age of gothic proliferation at first glance naturalist gothic seems to be a contradiction in terms while the gothic is known for its sensational effects with its emphasis on horror and the supernatural the doctrines of late nineteenth century naturalism attempted to move away from the aesthetics of sentimentality and stressed sobering mechanistic views of reality steeped in scientific thought and the determinism of market values and biology nonetheless what binds gothicism and naturalism together is a vision of shared pessimism and the perception of a fearful lingering presence that ominously haunts an impending modernity indeed it seems that in many naturalist works reality is so horrific that it can only be depicted through gothic tropes that prefigure the alienation and despair of modernism in recent years research on the gothic has flourished yet there has been no extensive study of the links between the gothic and naturalism particularly those which stem from the early american realist tradition haunting realities is a timely volume that addresses this gap and is an important addition to scholarly work on both the gothic and naturalism in the american literary tradition
