across sub saharan africa countries with a greater percentage of overlapping days in their school and farming calendars also have lower primary school survival rates in theory greater overlap between the school and farming calendars should indeed reduce schooling investments and farm based child labor too as it constrains the time allocation opportunity set for both productive activities i causally identify such effects by leveraging a four month shift to the school calendar in malawi that exogenously changed the number of days that the school calendar overlapped with specific crop calendars which differentially affected communities based on their pre policy crop allotments using panel data for school aged children i find that a 10 day increase in school calendar overlap during peak farming periods significantly decreases school advancement by 0.34 grades one lost grade for every three children and the share of children engaged in peak period household farming by 11 percentage points after four years secondary analyses reveal stronger negative schooling impacts for girls and poorer households driven by overlap with the labor intensive planting period a policy simulation illustrates that adapting the school calendar to minimize overlap with peak farming periods is a highly cost effective educational intervention to increase school participation by better accommodating farm labor demand america in the age of trump is a bracing essential look at the failure of a great nation to meet the needs of its people and the challenges of the age and the resulting collapse of public trust in government as well as a pervasive crisis of national values from broken families to a loss of faith in the american idea itself this crisis of values occurs just as the country faces an unprecedented array of fiscal economic social and national security challenges out of control federal spending frighteningly large deficits massive gaps of income and opportunity cultural division and a dangerous world in which american power seems increasingly incidental in america in the age of trump douglas e schoen and jessica tarlov offer a definitive and unique assessment of a nation in turmoil looking beneath well known problems to identify underlying yet poorly understood causes readers will confront the crises one by one of trust values and governance of education economic opportunity and fiscal solvency of national security domestic tranquility and race relations america in the age of trump gathers in one place a clear and comprehensive evaluation of the fundamental issues confronting the american future while offering bold fresh approaches to meeting these challenges other books have described the specter of american decline but none has been so comprehensive in its diagnosis or forward looking and non ideological in its remedies explaining how we might yet overcome national self doubt to reclaim our traditional optimism reassert our place in the world and secure a prosperous future for our citizens
