European Union is one of the most explosive economic and political issues of the early 21st century. Economic and financial stability combined with rising prosperity in the applicant countries are increasingly seen as necessary preconditions for European Union membership. This authoritative volume, written by scholars and practitioners from central and western Europe and the United States, confronts the issues involved in three of the countries most likely to be successful applicants to the EU: the Czech Republic, Hungary, and Slovenia. A spotlight is turned on the banking and financial industries as they are crucial to the achievement of economic stability. The blend of expertise deployed, which draws on in-depth knowledge and extensive experience in central banking, financial and commercial law, business, practical policy making, and economic analysis, ensures that this book is timely, relevant, and insightful. The authors suggest that the role of the state in both creating and maintaining an effective financial sector is central. Furthermore, they argue that well-regulated commercial banks and strategic foreign investors are a must, as in practice the attempt to skip straight to modern capital markets has been ruinous. This accessibly written volume will be of interest to students and scholars of economics, finance, law, political science, the sociology of economic life, and European studies.

This book explores the evolution of the banking sector and the financing tools it fosters, addressing the impact of new regulations and the ensuing opportunities for financial institutions, firms, and individuals. Written in two parts, the project includes papers presented at the 2019 annual conference of the Wolpertinger Club, the European Association of University Teachers in Banking and Finance. The first part addresses the impact of policy changes on banks and financial institutions, particularly the impact of recent changes in European policy. The authors explore how policy has been and is communicated and how it shapes new incentives and challenges for the banking sector and institutional and individual investors. The book touches upon the debate on the bail-in vs. bail-out options and reviews new opportunities for investors on covered and subordinated bond markets in Europe, covering the new regulatory structure provided by the European authorities. The second part explores new financing tools besides the traditional banking sector available to firms and individuals, examining financing options for firms and individuals and describing the role that alternative capital market tools such as mini bonds and crowdfunding are playing within the landscape of SME financing, arguing that financing decisions can ultimately affect the survival rate of startups. This edited collection will be valuable to those researching both finance and business, but particularly to those studying banking, financial institutions, and entrepreneurial finance.
