this book is the result of two interdisciplinary symposia held by a group of volcanologists engineers near eastern and classical philologists and old and new world archaeologists in naples italy and medford massachusetts contributors to the nineteen chapters examine the complex problems that can arise in volcanic environments and the various ways in which societies respond these studies cross barriers among the volcanological geological antiquarian and archaeological perspectives in studying such topics as risk assessment responses in prehistoric and historic times and representations in ancient literature

this volume addresses cultural representations of catastrophes such as floods epidemics and earthquakes over the centuries in the past as now artists and authors try to make sense of disasters grasp their impact and communicate moral religious or political messages this cross cultural study of the response by human groups to major environmental disruption brings together archaeological experts on mediterranean europe asia eurasia peru mexico and the u s desert southwest using the school of geographical analysis known as hazard research to identify the key attributes of natural disasters and the human social systems that respond to them researchers consider environmental variables such as the magnitude speed and extent of the disaster as well as social variables such as population density wealth distribution and political complexity to analyze and assess the damage potential of various types of natural disasters such analyses can be useful in generating hypotheses about human response to disaster and in evaluating catastrophic models of sociopolitical collapse the research in this book tends to show that social collapse is an unusual outcome of environmental disaster the authors hope to identify general patterns of human response to such disasters and the chapters cover major themes such as timing and human agency this volume is the second attempt by a joint international research team consisting of bulgarian chinese russian and american ethnologists to contribute to the domain of ecological anthropology the editors of and contributors to this collection share the understanding that catastrophic events challenge society to rework a specific methodology and to activate a specific resource to adapt to and cope with crises ecologically socially and ideologically the main aim of this volume is to reveal the important role of studying and taking into account the cultural stereotypes in this process through detailed analysis of different case studies the contributors further generalize the definition of disasters and critical situations as situations that arise from the violation of a balance in individual and collective life as any deviation from normality in the particular context of each discreet culture this interpretation informs a structural grouping of the materials in this collection into three main parts the section on cultural responses to natural and biological disasters specific case studies follows the conceptualization of cultural knowledge about disasters the contributors to the collection share the conviction that the ecology of social crises presented in the volume s third section on cultural management of social crises is a valuable and necessary addition to the field of natural and technological bio and man made disasters they believe this is proved by the texts presented in this volume the empirical data employed in the volume and the forms of disasters researched include materials from the tibetan pastoral area and the pamir plateau in asia the rhodopes and strandja mountains in the balkans macedonia and central and western bulgaria to ethnic minority areas in central and western china ukraine and moldova the international handbook features chapters by leading scholars from around the world in a unique collection exploring the multi disciplinary field of political ecology this landmark volume canvasses key developments topics issues debates and concepts showcasing how political ecologists today address pressing social and environmental concerns introductory chapters provide an overview of political ecology and the handbook remaining chapters examine five broad themes issues and approaches governance and power knowledge and discourse method and scale connections and transformations across diverse topics and perspectives these chapters amount to a wide ranging survey of current research making the international handbook an indispensable reference for scholars and students in political ecology response to disaster combines the original research of author henry w fischer with the literature used today to describe behavioral and organizational challenges commonly experienced before during and after disasters actual problems are presented and compared to those often misperceived to occur know as disaster mythology fisher examines case studies conducted during the post impact and long term recovery periods of major and minor disasters worldwide he asserts that the role of the mass media assists in eliciting needed help with an effective response but also perpetuates disaster mythology fisher presents striking comparisons between the perception of disaster in the eyes of the general public the actual situations emergency responders face and the way mass media reporters broadcast information additionally the problems encountered by emergency response organizations are compared and contrasted with general public and media perceptions of disaster response fisher presents the response to september 11 2001 the south asian tsunami and hurricane katrina in this comprehensive third edition this is the first book devoted to examining why some issues proposed by aggrieved individuals or groups are denied access to policy agendas the book contains case studies that look at the policy process from the perspective of the strategies opponents often use to ensure agenda denial strategies usually motivated by perceived threats to widely held world views and identities archaeology is helping to unravel the details of geological catastrophes during the past few millennia this text describes archaeological techniques and their application to examining the impacts of volcanoes and earthquakes there are case studies from around the world including europe africa south east asia central and north america there is also a strong focus on the minoan eruption of santorini and the ad eruption of vesuvius this is a clinically oriented investigation into the sources of stress the forms of stress response and the current array of treatment possibilities an outgrowth of the american psychological association s task force on psychiatric therapies it brings together contributions from many of the country s leading psychiatrists who possess expertise in the various syndromes associated with human stress provides both a sharp focus on specific treatments and an overall consideration of stress response that uses adjustment disorders as prime examples a rich and provocative collection of professional perspectives in this controversial area of modern psychiatric thinking it will also serve as a solid foundation for future research activities
