soldiers in the 21st century must possess the knowledge skills and other attributes to perform effectively in complex technical information rich environments this study development of a prototype self assessment program in support of soldier competency assessment was conducted as a counterpart to the u.s. army research institute for the behavioral and social sciences and performance measures for 21st century soldier assessment performance. The 21st century soldier assessment performance is a 3 year feasibility effort to identify viable approaches for an operational performance assessment system for army enlisted personnel. In this study, the researchers identified the design and content of a self assessment system that would help soldiers feel confident about testing and inform soldiers about the junior noncommissioned officer (NCO) promotion system and familiarize soldiers with the duties and responsibilities of NCOs. Information about best practices in the field of self assessment test preparation, including what is done in the other armed services academies and the test industry, was used to develop a prototype system that would explore the realm of test preparation functions, actions, and items that a typical soldier would encounter during this phase. The prototype system reflects 21st century soldier assessment test parameters; it is web based, targeted to E4 soldiers, and focuses on the army wide core assessment process.
