a collection of 20 stories written between 1980 1991 which deal with themes relevant to various regions of africa from the ancient egyptian inventors of the love lyric to contemporary poets bending the bow an anthology of african love poetry gathers together both written and sung love poetry from africa this anthology is a work of literary archaeology that lays bare a genre of african poetry that has been overshadowed by political poetry frank chipasula has assembled a historically and geographically comprehensive wealth of african love poetry that spans more than three thousand years by collecting a continent s celebrations and explorations of the nature of love he expands african literature into the sublime territory of the heart bending the bow traces the development of african love poetry from antiquity to modernity while establishing a cross millennial dialogue the anonymously written love poems from pharaonic egypt that open the anthology both predate biblical love poetry and reveal the longevity of written love poetry in africa the middle section is devoted to sung love poetry from all regions of the continent these great works serve as the foundation for modern poetry and testify to love poetry s omnipresence in africa the final section showcasing forty eight modern african poets celebrates the genre s continuing vitality among those represented are muyaka bin hajji and shaaban robert two major swahili poets gabriel okara the innovative though underrated nigerian poet léopold sédar senghor the first president of senegal and a founder of the negritude movement in francophone african literature rashidah ismaili from benin flavien ranaivo from madagascar and gabeba baderoon from south africa ranging from the subtly suggestive to the openly erotic this collection highlights love s endurance in a world too often riven by contention bending the bow bears testimony to poetry s role as conciliator while opening up a new area of study for scholars and students this anthology presents the voices of a new generation of african poets drawn from across the continent and representing a wide range of themes styles and ideologies lefevere explores how the process of rewriting works of literature manipulates them to ideological and artistic ends so that the rewritten text can be given a new sometimes subversive historical or literary status in the twentieth century more people spoke english and more people wrote poetry than in the whole of previous history and this companion strives to make sense of this crowded poetical era the original contributions by leading international scholars and practising poets were written as the contributors adjusted to the idea that the possibilities of twentieth century poetry were exhausted and finite however the volume also looks forward to the poetry and readings that the new century will bring the companion embraces the extraordinary development of poetry over the century in twenty english speaking countries a century which began with a bipolar transatlantic connection in modernism and ended with the decentred heterogeneity of post colonialism representation of the canonical and the marginal is therefore balanced including the full integration of women poets and feminist approaches and the in depth treatment of post colonial poets from various national traditions discussion of context intertextualities and formal approaches illustrates the increasing self consciousness and self reflexivity of the period whilst a readings section offers new readings of key selected texts the volume as a whole offers critical and contextual coverage of the full range of english language poetry in the last century
