the literature and research on the use of technology in student affairs is still very limited this volume of new direction for student services was written to increase our understanding of the role of technology in the student learning experience of campus based and as well as distance learners information technology has become a central tool in creating 24 7 self service experiences for students interacting with campus administrative functions recent technologies also create the real possibility of moving beyond administrative functions to playing a central role in student learning community development and student development this volume monograph attempts to capture the current thinking around the use of technology in student affairs it is not a review of the actual technologies in use in student affairs the pace of change is so fast that such a treatment would make the writing out of date within two years in that light this volume focuses less on the technology and more on the ways in which the technology is altering the organization of student affairs the ways in which the lines between campus based students and distance learners are blurring and the increasing role technology is playing in student learning illustrates the causes and consequences of climate change on populations around the world the progress made on fulfilling commitments regarding the issue and local efforts needed to reverse some of the long term effects does europe have the means to defend its own social model in a globalized world at a time when the united states china india and russia are concerned by enhancing their national sovereignties and playing power politics would europe who would never be a super state be able to impose norms over force that is the main question this book addresses in a very original way in the post 9 11 era of heightened security awareness conflicting strategies for containing and combating security risks have strained relations between the united states and the european union despite common goals these differences between the u s and the eu do not signal that the alliance should be discarded as many fundamental u s and european interests are reconcilable and an uncertain and disunited europe distracted and alienated by its internal differences could become even more problematic for washington instead to maintain dependable partners within the eu america should focus greater attention on its new allies in central and eastern europe cee who will be a guiding force in the continuing development of u s eu relations the cee countries have generally exhibited a more pro u s approach than many of their western european neighbors however public opinion and political positions are shifting and in several states opinions are converging with opinions in the older eu countries looking toward the uk as a role model other cee countries have sought to emulate london s position by avoiding stark choices between the united states and europe and by successfully combining both orientations in their foreign policies a dividing line may be emerging between the wider baltic region and the central european region a line that is most evident in perceptions of instability along the eastern borders of central and eastern europe and a sense of a growing threat from russia the u s must resist the temptation to focus its diplomatic efforts on bilateral agreements with those european countries in closest alignment to it and instead use these dependable and durable partners among the cee states to develop more predictable and productive relations with the eu for the sake of long term stability to accomplish this strategic objective washington needs to refocus the nato alliance ensure u s eu complementarity jointly pursue the expansion of democratic systems reward its new allies inte
