communication in the public sphere as well as within organizational contexts has attracted the interest of researchers over the past century current forms of citizen engagement and community development partly enabled through digital communication have further enhanced the visibility and relevance of non profit communication these are performed by the civil society which is the organized expression of the values and interests of society castells 2008 in the public sphere non profit communication feeds the public sphere as the discursive processes in a complex network of persons institutionalized associations and organizations whereas those discourses are a civilized way of disagreeing openly about essential matters of common concern jensen 2002 despite the relevance in the public sphere non profit communication was never properly defined within communication research the aim of the present book is to offer an overview and report on strategic communication for non profit organisations and the challenges and alternative approaches considering the assumption that a key principle of strategic communication is the achievement of organisational goals the majority of research developed in the field has used business environments to develop theories models empirical insights and case studies here we take a step towards new approaches centred on the concept of non profit in various dimensions and from various perspectives showing the diversity and complexity around this subject and at the same time the need of further theoretical and empirical work that provides frameworks and also tools for further understanding of the phenomena recent decades have seen a significant transformation of the not for profit nfp sector this includes rise in the number of organisations and people employed shift from charities and philanthropic agencies to hybrid social enterprise business models competing stakeholder interests and increasing expectations regarding accountability and transparency the role of nfps has also become more complex they not only serve the disadvantaged and fulfil social needs but also actively advocate for and implement public policies and promote social and economic inclusion the growth and complexity has brought with it a need for innovative and entrepreneurial approaches to leadership that stems from an in depth understanding of the changing nonprofit landscape addressing this need for not for profits and social enterprises will help readers navigate extant challenges by drawing on conceptual literature both theoretical and empirical and emphasising practical real world experience through case studies and vignettes the key aim of this book is to help existing and future nfp leaders at all organisational levels to support their organisations and employees and in turn clients and communities through theoretical insights and practical approaches by focusing on transformational leadership aspects for contemporary not for profits for not for profits and social enterprises is key reading for researchers academics and policy makers in the areas of non profit management leadership public sector management and charity management as well as related disciplines such as philanthropy and social entrepreneurship get ready to question everything you ve been told about charity and to find out how you can truly succeed at making the world a better place many of us donate to charitable causes and millions more work or volunteer for non profit organizations yet virtually none of us have been taught what it means to succeed at doing good let alone how to do so in short we ve never been encouraged to treat charity with the seriousness and rigor it deserves how to be great at doing good is a complacency shattering guidebook for anyone who wants to actually change the world whether as a donor a volunteer or a non profit staffer drawing on eye opening studies in psychology and human behavior surprising interviews with philanthropy professionals and the author s fifteen years of experience founding and managing top rated non profits this book is an essential read for anyone who wants to do more good with their time and money find out how bill gates and a team of mit grads are saving thousands of lives by applying business principles to charity work and how we can too peer inside our brains as we donate and discover how the same chemical forces that make us crave junk food and sex can steer us toward bad charity decisions see why following our passion and doing what we're good at can actually doom our efforts to improve the world learn how two seemingly identical charities can have jaw dropping differences in impact and find out how to pick the best one when donating sure to generate controversy among non profits and philanthropists who prefer business as usual how to be great at doing good reveals that a more calculated effective approach to charity work isn't just possible it's absolutely necessary for those who want to succeed at changing the world in the late 1930s a number of american women especially those allied with various peace and isolationist groups protested against the nation's entry into world war ii while their story is fairly well known margaret paton walsh reveals a far less familiar story of women who fervently felt that american intervention was absolutely necessary paton walsh recounts how the united states became involved in the war but does so through the eyes of american women who faced it as a necessary evil covering the period between 1935 and 1941 she examines how these women functioned as political actors even though they were excluded from positions of power through activism in women's organizations informal women's networks and even male dominated lobbying groups in the great debate over whether america should enter the war some women favored aid to the allies not because they hoped for war but because they hoped aid would forestall more direct u.s. involvement but also because they believed war was preferable to a nazi victory paton walsh shows that this activism involved some of the most prominent women of their day elizabeth cutter morrow whose son in law charles lindbergh was an isolationist spokesman supported the revision of the neutrality acts to allow the sale of arms to the allies and expressed her support in a national radio broadcast soon other women joined this debate esther brunauer of the aauw journalist dorothy thompson and organizations like the league of women voters and national women's trade union league broke from the pacifist tradition to advocate american aid for the allied cause focusing on the conflict in europe paton walsh shows how these women grasped the implications of the lend lease program for america's entry into the war but supported it nevertheless by late 1941 the women's division of the fight for freedom committee had been established no longer merely advocating aid to britain to keep american boys out of battle this organization supported direct american involvement in the war as a means of stopping nazi oppression while most historians have focused on women s pacifism paton walsh connects women more directly to world events and shows how those interventionists reformulated maternalist ideas to justify and explain their beliefs our war too is a story of american women trying to reconcile the irreconcilable to preserve both their principles and their peace it expands our understanding of women as political actors and thinkers about foreign policy as it sheds new light on american public opinion over the build up to the war for a good cause explores the largely unchecked growth of america s 1 2 million nonprofits from the first community chests and veterans aid societies to the enormous number of organizations today that enjoy tax breaks and other benefits written by an experienced executive in the nonprofit field for a good cause examines why the regulation of nonprofit organizations encourages excess and deceit how government overseers and nonprofit executives fail to police each other and how donors can protect themselves when they select and support their favorite causes
