in these essays i often refer to social contracts such as the declaration of independence the constitution of the united states the universal declaration of human rights and other international conventions that describe a vision of just human relations especially in the area of culture and health care we do not live behind a veil of ignorance where we enter into contemplation of questions of right and wrong without an awareness of our own particularities moreover we do not always determine what is right based on reason but we do make decisions every day about how we will live within the social contracts that govern our lives many of us go along to get along with a lets not rock the boat preserve the status quo caution then there are those of us who use the documents of our social contracts to secure more justice and more peace the purpose is to rock the boat and to disrupt the status quo when it is unjust i understand christ as a title not as a person it is a designation of an anointing this in my opinion is the anointing of radical love christ is the human incarnation of divine love we each ought to strive to become this whether or not we are christian whether or not we are even believers those of us who are christians believe that jesus paid it all there is no more need for blood shed sacrifice murder is never holy god does not need it or want it our work now is to become living sacrifices that will redeem this world through justice and peace that is the meaning of these essays from the introduction tears and weeping are at once human universals and socially constrained phenomena this volume explores the interface between those two viewpoints by examining medical literature sermons and lyric poetry of the 16th and 17th centuries to see how dominant paradigms regarded who could who must and who must not weep these paradigms shifted in some cases radically during these centuries without a clear understanding of how the renaissance read tears it is difficult to avoid using our own preconceptions often quite different and very misleading there are five chapters one on medical and scientific material two on sermons and two on different types of lyric no institution has so captivated and intrigued americans as the hospital it is where the miracles of modern medicine meet the mysteries of the human body it is where life begins and often ends it embodies our hopes and fears our capacity for heroism and compassion now based on an unforgettable series of first person narratives life and death takes us behind the scenes for an intimate and inspiring look at one of the best hospitals in the country new york s columbia presbyterian we witness the pressure packed decision making process of the hospital s elite heart transplant team spend a morning in the delivery room as twelve new lives enter the world share the emergency staff s struggle to care for one midsummer night s wounded in new york city from the ravages of aids and cocaine to the rigors of internship to the remarkable redemptive powers of our great healers life and death captures the entire range of human experience the poignancy pain and humor that are all part of a day s work at this extraordinary institution
