the practices of world politics are now scrutinised in a way that is unprecedented with even those previously or conventionally assumed to be disengaged from international affairs being drawn into world politics by social media interactive websites allow users to follow election results in real time from the other side of the world and online mapping means that the world out there is now available on your mobile phone understanding popular culture and world politics in the digital age engages these themes in contemporary world politics to better understand how digital communication through new media technologies changes our encounters with the world whether the focus is digital media social networking or user generated content these sites of political activity and the artefacts they produce have much to tell us about how we engage world politics in the contemporary age this volume represents the starting point of a dialogue about how digital technologies are beginning to impact the research and practice of scholars and practitioners in the field of international relations with the collection of cutting edge essays dealing specifically with the intertextuality of world politics and digital popular culture this book will be of use to international relations research academics and critically engaged publics interested in the core themes of global politics subjectivity militarism humanitarianism civil society organisation and governance the book also employs theories and techniques closely associated with other social science disciplines including political theory sociology cultural studies and media studies from de gaulle onwards france's strategic independence has been predicated on self sufficiency in modern weapons to achieve and maintain the requisite defence industrial base in the context of limited domestic orders paris sought to promote the export of its arms during the cold war this underpinned but was also an expression of france's determination to resist bipolar domination france offered customers around the world an alternative to reliance on one superpower or the other and in doing so it generated the revenue to support an extensive domestic arms industry the end of the cold war ushered in fundamental changes however western defence spending shrank and the global market was turned upside down while france's arms export policy was less affected by human rights concerns than other democracies it was not immune to pressures stemming from the consolidation of europe's defence industrial base and the increased interest of the eu in regulating the arms trade this adelphi book considers how france has responded to changing political and market circumstances in the way that it promotes and controls the export of weapons it examines the rationale for considering a liberal arms export policy as essential to french independence and the institutional arrangements that underpinned this it tracks the dramatic changes in the global arms market since 1990 in terms of demand and market competition and charts the response of the french government to these changes the book underlines how the french machinery of government as a directing force behind the defence industry has been resistant to the notion of export restraint even in the case of sales to authoritarian regimes however it argues that france now faces a dilemma over whether to continue with a long successful course or to moderate its independence through greater collaboration to bolster european integration and better compete globally international trade and investment have enabled many countries in the asia pacific region to boost economic growth and have lifted millions out of poverty as the asia pacific region continues to thrive economically trade and investment barriers are being dissolved and eliminated as countries begin to depend on each other more trade policy is gradually becoming a useful measure to achieve inclusive and sustainable development trade and investment are linked to the environment and social issues hence their impacts are also multi dimensional it has now been recognized that sustainable production and consumption are essential for sustainable development countries realize that they are not able to approach global and regional problems on their own and require cooperation both at the level of government and business as a result the region has been active in concluding regional cooperation frameworks which routinely are centered on trade and investment in the meantime business has forged regional integration through the formation of regional value chains and production networks while governments have paved the way for the expansion of such production networks through the formation of regional trade agreements and economic partnerships thus the asia pacific trade agreement apta which is the oldest preferential trade agreement in the region with a large consumer base can play an important role in filling this gap given a slow progress in the multilateral negotiations in the wto especially when the members have started questioning the utility of the negotiations after 15 years and a lack of consensus on how to move forward the regional trade agreements can play a vital role even if they pose a challenge to the multilateralism selected liberalisation of trade and economy in present time can become a building block for future multilateral negotiations one of the reasons for the surge in these preferential trade agreements is to make binding commitments on wto plus and wto beyond issues while there are many agreements that exist in asia and the pacific there is no such attempt to consolidate them in one umbrella framework understanding the benefits of the consolidation one such initiative was started by escap a few years back the reci initiative for market integration could well be facilitated by apta however it cannot deliver unless it transforms itself in a new generation agreement regional integration and cooperation are also important to meet the 2030 agenda for sustainable development instead of wasting resources in discussing a new institutional framework it would be more effective to use the existing framework and for the asia pacific economies the apta provides an existing institutional platform the cases discussed in this book prepare a ground for the future and it is expected that all the stakeholders member states of escap private sector as well as researchers would benefit from this publication on apta south south regional integration and sustainable development building disability inclusive societies in asia and the pacific assessing progress of the incheon strategy presents the first regional comprehensive progress report on participation of persons with disabilities in development opportunities at the midpoint of the implementation of the incheon strategy the incheon strategy to make the right real for persons with disabilities in asia and the pacific sets out 10 goals 27 targets and 62 indicators through which the social political and economic inclusion of persons with disabilities could be tracked this publication provides policymakers across different ministries as well as civil society and persons with disabilities with the chance to reflect on the status of disability inclusive development in the region and set forward a path ensuring that persons with disabilities are included and empowered across all
