in this lucid and insightful essay renowned linguist roy harris reflects on the early nineteenth century doctrine of art for art's sake this was attacked by prudhon and nietzsche but defended by théophile gautier and e m forster it influenced movements as diverse as futurism and dada over the past two centuries three main positions have emerged the institutional view declares art to be a status conferred upon certain works by the approval of influential institutions the idiocentric view gives absolute priority to the judgment of the individual the third is the conceptual view of art which insists that what counts is the idea that inspired a work not the physical execution but as harris shows the tacit assumptions which once supported this debate and these positions have now collapsed art as a coherent category has imploded leaving behind a historical residue of empty questions that contemporary society can no longer answer the great debate about art provides much needed signposts for understanding this sorry state of affairs

this timely volume challenges the narrow western centrism of most art historical models archeologists have found that for tens of thousands of years all human cultures have shared a desire for visual representation or expression yet the study of art history has traditionally focused on western artworks of the past few centuries world art studies examines the phenomenon of art through a broader cultural global and temporal perspective bringing together a uniquely exhaustive range of perspectives on art and borrowing approaches from the study of neuroscience evolutionary biology anthropology and geography as models alongside more conventional art historical perspectives in musicology or linguistics using such diverse viewpoints for reflection and research is considered part of the normal process in that spirit this volume goes beyond abstract models using case studies to demonstrate and examine specific methods of investigation book jacket create and be recognized is the first survey of a compelling always surprising art form outsider photography presented here is the work of seventeen largely self taught artists who have used photography or photographic elements in their creations including such luminaries as adolf wolffli howard finster and henry darger as well as discoveries from little known equally dramatic artists as with most outsider art the work here is fuelled by singular passions marginalized mindsets and extreme circumstances falling outside mainstream picture making employing collage affixing photos or reproductions to a background photocollage photographs cut and pasted together to form a new whole and tableaux works based on manipulation and staging the artists here present work that is by turns lyrical and frightening and always fascinating published to coincide with a major touring exhibition of the same name originating at san francisco s yerba buena center for the arts create and be recognized documents an emerging and important facet of contemporary photography the art of self taught artists including visionaries folk creators spiritualists recluses the mad and the socially marginalized was once scorned by the art establishment among the first to value and collect such works was the french artist jean dubuffet 1901 85 who coined the term art brut or raw art he saw art brut as the purest form of creation because it was uncooked by culture touched by a raw nerve and deriving directly from the psyche some 50 years later a wave of enthusiasm for contemporary folk art has gripped countries as far apart as india and the united states john maizels ties these disparate strands together providing an extensive survey of the self taught art of the twentieth century today a bewildering range of terminology has emerged along with growing enthusiasm for strains of creative expression outside the conventional art world in raw creation maizels traces the history of the recognition and study of this art and examines different theories and definitions that have grown up around it he provides detailed expositions of the work of individual artists ranging from such art brut masters as adolf wolffli and aloise corbaz to such gifted american folk artists as bill traylor and mose tolliver devoting several chapters to large scale visionary environments maizels takes a broad view embracing rodia towers in watts los angeles the palais idéal in the south of france and nek chand s sculpture garden in north india raw creationprovides an indispensable guide to self taught art and a fascinating account of human creativity michel nedjar is one of the most important living artists of the art brut movement dolls that fascinated him during his journeys to mexico and guatemala are the result of his first encounter with magic and death these dolls inspired him to make his first fetish figures from waste materials these were later followed by drawings his icons consist of a series of figures that are endlessly repeated faces and masks human bodies mummies stick dolls and silhouettes as well as certain animals and birds julian freeman s 16 essays on british art turn the subject on its heads its side and without pretending to formally reassess it give it a good shaking deliberately provocative and affectionate by turns he moves from discursive commentaries on the art of the home counties of the british isles to consider some of the ways in which brits of all colours and persuasions have handled the practice of art from inspiration and inception through creation in its countless modes to the testy business of exhibiting deliberately opinionated and stupendously accurate
