civil law and common law systems are held to enforce promises differently civil law in principle will enforce any promise while common law will enforce only those with consideration in that respect modern civil law supposedly differs from the roman law from which it descended where a promise was enforced depending on the type of contract the parties had made this 2001 volume is concerned with the extent to which these characterizations are true and how these and other differences affect the enforceability of promises beginning with a concise history of these distinctions the volume then considers how twelve european legal systems would deal with fifteen concrete situations finally a comparative section considers why legal systems enforce certain promises and not others and what promises should be enforced this is the second completed project of the common core of european private law launched at the university of trento
