winner of the prose award 2022 for classics this book argues for a new way of reading tragedy that attends to how bodies in the ancient plays pivot between subject and object person and thing living and dead and so serve as vehicles for confronting the edges of the human at the same time it explores the ways in which greek tragedy pulls up close to human bodies examining their physical edges their surfaces and parts their coverings or nakedness and their postures and orientations drawing on and advancing the latest interplays of posthumanism and materialism in relation to classical literature nancy worman shows how this tragic enactment may seem to emphasize the human body but in effect does something quite different greek drama instead often treats the body as a thing that has the status and implications associated with other objects such as a cloak an urn or a toy for a dog tragic bodies urges attention to key scenes in greek tragedy that foreground bodily identifiers as semiotic materializing this occurs when signs with weighty symbolic resonance distil out on the dramatic stage as concrete sites for contention and conflation orchestrated through proximity contact and sensory dynamics reading the dramatic script in this way pursues the felt knowledge at the body's edges that tragic representation affords a consideration attuned to how bodies register at tragedy's unique intersections where directive and figurative language combine to highlight visual tactile and aural details
