the analysis of academic genres and the use of corpus resources methods and analytical tools are now central to a great deal of research into English for Academic Purposes (EAP). Both genre analysis and corpus investigations have revealed the patterning of academic texts at the levels of lexicogrammar and discourse and have led to richer understandings of the variations in such patterning between genres and between disciplines. The thirteen contributions included in this volume address issues in academic discourse studies from a range of perspectives: namely corpus based research into EAP at the lexicogrammatical and genre levels (section 1), intercultural EAP research (section 2), English as a lingua franca in academic communication (section 3), and the relationships between corpus, genre and pedagogy in EAP with an emphasis on implications and applications (section 4). The collection is aimed primarily at teachers, students and researchers of EAP and applied corpus linguistics but will also interest applied linguists in general. The emphasis of the contributions varies from studies with predominantly linguistic orientations to those focussing on practical applications.

An integrated writing course designed to challenge and stimulate students on pre-sessional and pre-departure courses. The writing course can be used on its own or in conjunction with a separately published reading course which shares the same topics. In most of the units the course book contains step-by-step activities written by EAP professionals at the University of Reading's Centre for Applied Language Studies. These are designed for use with authentic up-to-date texts. In the accompanying source book the design of the material is founded on an extensive review of recent research into EAP writing methodology and reflects the most recent developments in language teaching for academic purposes. The material is aimed at students with an IELTS level of between 5.0 and 7.0.
