excerpt from military geography for professionals and the public the dearth of consolidated studies on the discipline of military geography came to john collins attention early in his long and distinguished career as a soldier and scholar thus he began and kept up an interest in the subject for more than 40 years amassing voluminous files on the subject finally afforded the opportunity to research and write on his avocation at the national defense university he spent 2 years as a visiting fellow tapping not only his own wealth of data and experience but a wide variety of well informed opinions on every facet of military geography the resultant volume the culmination of a life long career fills a gap in the professional and technical literature the national defense university is pleased to have hosted john collins and to publish his work no other book to our knowledge marries military art with that of the geographer so deftly and completely the volume seems destined to meet its stated purposes for years to come namely to provide a textbook for students a handbook for military professionals and an enlightening survey for any appreciative lay reader about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works the technical information contained herein represents the condensed compilation of over 650 pages of notes taken daily during the first 5 weeks namtd of the p 3 flight engineer f e training syllabus these namtd notes cover various aircraft systems and are more detailed than section i of the p 3 natops these notes were all taken in 1985 as part of p 3 f e training at patrol squadron 31 vp 31 nas moffett field ca on average 25 30 pages of notes were taken each day and were neatly re written into a hard bound notebook each night this work also contains several details and sketches added to the notebook during the remaining 15 weeks of f e school these details are included as appendices at the back of this book the contents and details within this book were used by me for many years as a study aid for all natops exams and checkrides much of the highlighted text was added later and referenced from various closed book exams over the years although modern aircraft systems have become electronically controlled and more complex the systems information contained herein provides a solid foundation for understanding the technical parameters required for reliable all weather aircraft operation none of the contents of this work are sensitive controlled or classified in any way my hope is that my sons grandchildren and anyone with a passion for aircraft will find this information to be legible interesting and helpful in gaining a better understanding as to how and why aircraft systems operate whether they are a seasoned airline captain or simply someone interested in pursuing aviation in some way
