the turn of the millennium in france coincided with a number of tangible crises and apocalyptic discourses and with the growth of the mass media and global market further generating and manipulating crisis in this original wide ranging but closely analytical study cruickshank contextualizes and reads the work of four influential writers of prose fiction angot echenoz houellebecq and redonnet teasing out each one s response to this convergence she suggests that the recurrent fictional and cultural trope of the turning point has both aesthetic and critical potential bringing together analyses spanning literature thought and culture she identifies and critiques the ways in which on the eve of the twenty first century different theoretical and fictional approaches confront the manipulation of crisis discourses drawing on a long twentieth century of crisis thinking cruickshank counters the perception that a postmodern model of perpetual crisis is culturally dominant and establ if the academic field of death studies is a prosperous one there still seems to be a level of mistrust concerning the capacity of literature to provide socially relevant information about death and to help improve the anthropological understanding of how culture is shaped by the human condition of mortality furthermore the relationship between literature and death tends to be trivialized in the sense that death representations are interpreted in an over aestheticized manner as such this approach has a propensity to consider death in literature to be significant only for literary studies and gives rise to certain persistent clichés such as the power of literature to annihilate death this volume overcomes such stereotypes and reveals the great potential of literary studies to provide fresh and accurate ways of interrogating death as a steady and unavoidable human reality and as an ever continuing socio cultural construction the volume brings together researchers from various countries the usa the uk france poland new zealand canada india germany greece and romania with different academic backgrounds in fields as diverse as literature art history social studies criminology musicology and cultural studies and provides answers to questions such as what are the features of death representations in certain literary genres is it possible to speak of an homogeneous vision of death in the case of some literary movements how do writers perceive imagine and describe their death through their personal diaries or how do they metabolize the death of the significant others through their writings to what extent does the literary representation of death refer to the extra fictional socio historically constructed death is it moral to represent death in children s literature what are the differences and similarities between representing death in literature and death representations in other connected fields are metaphors and literary representations of death forms of death denial or on the contrary a more insightful way of capturing the meaning of death relevance is one of the most widely used buzz words in academic and other socio political discourses and institutions today which constantly ask us to be relevant to date there is no profound scholarly conceptualization of the term however which is widely accepted in the humanities relevance and narrative research closes this gap by initiating a discussion which turns the vaguely defined evaluative tool relevance into an object of study the contributors to this volume do so by firmly situating questions of relevance in the context of narrative theory briefly put they ask either what can relevance do for narrative research or what can narrative research do for better understanding relevance or both the basic assumption is that relevance is a relational term further assuming that most if not all relations which human beings encounter within their cultures are narratively constructed the contributors to this volume suggest that reflections on narrative and narrative research are fundamental to any endeavor to conceptualize notions of relevance in the last twenty years the concept of the quotidien or the everyday has been prominent in contemporary french culture and in british and american cultural studies this book provides the first comprehensive analytical survey of the whole field of approaches to the everyday it offers firstly a historical perspective demonstrating the importance of mainstream and dissident surrealism the indispensable contribution over a 20 year period 1960 80 of four major figures henri lefebvre roland barthes michel de certeau and georges perec and the recent proliferation of works that investigate everyday experience secondly it establishes the framework of philosophical ideas on which discourses on the everyday depend but which they characteristically subvert thirdly it comprises searching analyses of works in a variety of genres including fiction the essay poetry theatre film photography and the visual arts consistently stressing how explorations of the everyday tend to question and combine genres in richly creative ways by demonstrating the enduring contribution of percec and others and exploring the surrealist inheritance the book proposes a genealogy for the remarkable upsurge of interest in the everyday since the 1980s a second main objective is to raise questions about the dimension of experience addressed by artists and thinkers when they invoke the quotidien or related concepts does the everyday refer to an objective content defined by particular activities or is it best thought of in terms of rhythm repetition festivity ordinariness the generic the obvious the given are there events or acts that are uniquely everyday or is the quotidien a way of thinking about events and acts in the here and now as opposed to the longer term what techniques or genres are best suited to conveying the nature of everyday life the book explores these questions in a comparative spirit drawing new parallels between the work of numerous writers and artists including andré breton raymond queneau walter benjamin michel leiris maurice blanchot michel foucault stanley cavell annie ernaux jacques réda and sophie calle
