written by members of the study of parliament group this collection of essays on the law and parliament deals with subjects such as the nolan report devolution and an examination of the historical relationship between parliament and european human rights law seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject politics region western europe grade 77 birkbeck university of london university of london course contemporary british politics language english abstract this paper considers whether the concept of parliamentary sovereignty is a reality in the modern united kingdom to frame the boundaries of this essay parliamentary is taken as referring to action taken by the westminster based tripartite authorities of the house of commons the house of lords and the british monarchy since an incontrovertible definition of sovereignty is more difficult i turn to dicey 1915 who uses two criteria firstly parliament has the right to make or unmake any law and secondly no person or body is recognized by the law of england as having a right to override or set aside the legislation of parliament taking these together i define parliamentary sovereignty as a concept which considers that the westminster parliament has

complete control over the legal affairs of the uk and that no individual or body can override any act of parliament this also incorporates the diceyan concept that no parliament can bind its successor in recent decades the reality of parliamentary sovereignty has been increasingly questioned due to a number of constitutional changes in particular this paper considers the impact on parliamentary sovereignty of i membership of the european union ii the passing of the human rights act iii the changing role of the judiciary and iv devolution
