in the ideology of conduct first published in 1987 scholars from various fields from the medieval period to the present day discuss literature in which the sole purpose is to instruct women in how to make themselves desirable this collection investigates how middle class writers who had long emulated the behaviour of the aristocracy began to criticise that behaviour by formulating an alternative object of desire they did so without appearing to breed political controversy because it seemed to concern only the female but writing for and about women in fact became a powerful instrument of hegemony as it introduced a whole new vocabulary for social relations induced certain forms of economic behaviour as desirable in men and women respectively and insured the reproduction of the nuclear family it is argued therefore that the literature of conduct not only recorded but also assisted the production of our contemporary gender based culture as our foremost living poet professor knight urges and goes far to prove that modern literary criticism up until the 1970s failed to touch upon the richer meanings of contemporary literature he stresses the relation between such acclaimed poets as yeats and eliot and the spiritualistic movements of contemporary times knight regards youth revolts as a sign of a healthy dissatisfaction with an irreligious and directionless culture and believes that hope lies in the neglected powers pressing for acceptance the essays in this collection first published in 1987 represent a collective attempt to listen with the third ear to the underhand ways the unspoken has of speaking and to speak of these ways by focusing on discourse the volume is distinguished from traditional literature by its emphasis on rhetorical structures and textual strategies and the investment of these structures with desire power and other aspects of subjectivity rather than the personality of the artist or the creative process however in this book the human dimension is not lost by claiming that the structures in question are not merely linguistic semiotic or narratological although they are all of these the human dimension is returned not in the raw as in traditional approaches but through the traces it leaves in the text as activated by its reading this book is ideal for students of literature and psychoanalytical theory
