explores how human beings use animals and images of animals to define themselves and how those depictions interfere with our abilities to understand the true nature of animals in the postmodern animal steve baker explores how animal imagery has been used in modern and contemporary art and performance and in postmodern philosophy and literature to suggest and shape ideas about identity and creativity baker cogently analyses the work of such european and american artists as olly and suzi mark dion paula rego and sue coe at the same time looking critically at the constructions performances and installations of robert rauschenberg louise bourgeois joseph beuys and other significant late twentieth century artists baker s book draws parallels between the animal s place in postmodern art and poststructuralist theory drawing on works as diverse as jacques derrida s recent analysis of the role of animals in philosophical thought and julian barnes s best selling flaubert s parrot was there a horse sense in the medieval period why did word licking dogs inhabit manuscript borders the seven intriguing articles in this publication explore animals on the edge and the boundaries between humans and animals these articles provide insights into the discussions in animal studies and medieval studies about the multiple roles of medieval fauna challenging our understanding of how animals were understood in the middle ages the authors of the articles demonstrate how humans have always constructed animals but also have been constructed by animals the examples are drawn from manuscripts fables textual and visual accounts as well as material culture this publication raises interesting aspects about the profound and ambiguous relationship between animals and humans edges and boundaries hybridity and anthropomorphism ideas and identities this book is intended for researchers in the field of narrative from post graduate level onwards it analyzes the audio recordings of the narratives of former slaves from the american south which are now publically available on the library of congress website voices from the days of slavery more specifically this book analyses the identity work of these former slaves and considers how these identities are related to master narratives the novelty of this book is that through using such a temporally diverse and relatively large corpus we show how master narratives change according to both the zeitgeist of the here and now of the interview world and the historical period that is related in the there and then of the story world moreover focusing on the active achievement of master narratives as socially situated co constructed discursive accomplishments we analyze how different inherently unstable and even contradictory versions of master narratives are enacted animals regularly populate philosophical texts as a foil to illustrate what it means to be human how should we understand this human animal divide not only does it inform us of who we are it also tells us how we should relate to the larger non human world the speaking animal interrogates the human animal divide by looking at our linguistic differences how the speaking human subject is constructed through its opposition to the dumb animal alison suen begins with an analysis of the role of language in animal ethics with an eye toward the voice voiceless opposition that is at work in animal advocacy after offering a critical analysis of the ethical and political significance of speaking for animals the book takes on a more constructive turn going against the usual interpretation of language as a capacity that allows us to reason instead it argues that our language capacity is also a relational capacity language is that which enables us to develop kinship with others including animal others ask the animals and they will tell you birds beasts and creeping things swarm throughout the bible s pages despite their prevalence most biblical scholars have viewed them merely as metaphors passive objects or background embellishment to the human experience this collection seeks to move beyond this traditional view of biblical animals by engaging the growing interdisciplinary field of animal studies contributors peter joshua atkins jared beverly william p brown margaret cohen jacob r evers michael j gilmour william chip gruen dong hyeon jeong brian fiu kolia anne létourneau robert r mackay suzanna r millar timothy j sandoval robert paul seesengood ken stone brian james tipton arthur w walker jones and jaime l waters showcase the breadth and depth of inquiry that animal studies can foster in biblical studies as well as what animal studies can gain from a more rigorous engagement with biblical texts together the essays offer an animal hermeneutic that supports the flourishing of all creatures
