plato five dialogues euthyphro apology crito meno phaedo plato was a philosopher in classical greece and the founder of the academy in athens the first institution of higher learning in the western world he is widely considered the most pivotal figure in the development of philosophy especially the western tradition unlike nearly all of his philosophical contemporaries plato s entire work is believed to have survived intact for over 2 400 years others believe that the oldest extant manuscript dates to around ad 895 1100 years after plato s death this makes it difficult to know exactly what plato wrote along with his teacher socrates and his most famous student aristotle plato laid the very foundations of western philosophy and science alfred north whitehead once noted the safest general characterization of the european philosophical tradition is that it consists of a series of footnotes to plato in addition to being a foundational figure for western science philosophy and mathematics plato has also often been cited as one of the founders of western religion and spirituality plato s influence on christianity is often thought to be mediated by his major influence on saint augustine of hippo one of the most important philosophers and theologians in the foundation of the western thought in the 19th century the philosopher nietzsche called christianity platonism for the people numenius of apamea viewed this differently he called plato the hellenic mooses this would justify the superiority of christianity over hellenism because mooses predates plato thus the original source of this wisdom is the root of christianity and not hellenistic culture 12 plato was the innovator of the written dialogue and dialectic forms in philosophy plato appears to have been the founder of western political philosophy with his republic and laws among other dialogues providing some of the earliest extant treatments of political questions from a philosophical perspective plato's own most decisive philosophical influences are usually thought to have been socrates parmenides heraclitus and pythagoras although few of his predecessors works remain extant and much of what we know about these figures today derives from plato himself

The last two decades have witnessed the growing participation in theological dialogues of non-institutional free church movements. This poses a serious challenge to 21st century ecumenism since ecclesial realities and internal diversity of these movements impede fruitful dialogue in the classical manner. The present volume addresses fundamental aspects of this challenge by a critical study of an exemplary case of such dialogues: the International Roman Catholic Classical Pentecostal Dialogue 1972-2007. This unique study builds both on primary archival sources and on earlier research on the IRCPCD. After providing an ecumenical profile of the classical pentecostal dialogue partner, Creemers demonstrates how fair representation of the classical pentecostal movement has been pursued in the course of the dialogue. Next, he gives attention to the ecumenical method of the IRCPCD. First, the development of a dialogue method hinging on hard questions is traced, which has allowed a balanced theological exchange between the dialogue partners regarding theological method. It is demonstrated that both partners showed a willingness to experiment together by integrating sources of theological knowledge typically distrusted in their own traditions. In conclusion, the analyses are integrated in an overview of challenges and opportunities for dialogue with the classical pentecostal movement in the context of ongoing discussions on ecumenical method.

Plato was one of the devoted young followers of Socrates. Plato never speaks in his own voice in his dialogues and speaks as Socrates. The five dialogues include the Euthyphro, Apology, Crito, Meno, and Phaedo.
