this volume bringing together work by scholars from europe east asia north america and west africa investigates transnational religious spaces in a comparative manner by juxtaposing east asian and african examples

it highlights flows of ideas actors and organizations out of into or within a given continental space these flows are patterned mainly by colonialism or migration the book also examines cases where the transnational space in question encompasses both east asia and africa notably in the development of japanese new religions in africa most of the studies are located in the present a few go back to the late nineteenth century the volume is rounded off by thomas tweed s systematic reflections on categories for the study of transnationalism his chapter flows and dams critically weighs the metaphorical language we use to think speak and write about transnational religious spaces this book explores the role of religion in the lives of brazilian migrants in london and on their return back home working with the notion of religion as lived experience it moves beyond rigid denominational boundaries and examines how and where religion is practiced in migrants everyday lives this timely book explores the role played by faith based organisations fbos which are growing in importance in the provision of social services in the european context religion in europe is currently undergoing changes that are reconfiguring physical and virtual spaces of practice and belief and these changes need to be understood with regards to the proliferation of digital media discourses this book explores religious change in europe through a comparative approach that analyzes atheist catholic and muslim blogs as spaces for articulating narratives about religion that symbolically challenge the power of religious institutions the book adds theoretical complexity to the study of religion and digital media with the concept of hypermediated religious spaces the theory of hypermediation helps to critically discuss the theory of secularization and to contextualize religious change as the result of multiple entangled phenomena it considers religion as being connected with secular and post secular spaces and media as embedding material forms institutions and technologies a spatial perspective contextualizes hypermediated religious spaces as existing at the interstice of alternative and mainstream private and public imaginary and real venues by offering the innovative perspective of hypermediated religious spaces this book will be of significant interest to scholars of religious studies the sociology of religion and digital media the book begins by developing a spatial methodology to analyse secular and post secular religious relations the spatial approach is then applied to a particular case that of the left hand our understanding of this sinister but intimate other draws on a wide range of ideas from different religious traditions to alternative paths to salvation and self realisation the book presents a spatial analysis of religious secular relations it locates religion within the social cultural and physical spaces of the present using a method informed by contemporary spatial theory particularly the work of henri lefebvre combining theoretical sophistication with a fundamental comprehension of the political institutions of the usa this study aims to demystify the workings of the united states supreme court and its place in democracy it is well known that religion as well as philosophy depends upon language for the expression of its truths this seems a simple proposition but what are its consequences if language is the sole medium of development of the higher thoughts and feelings in its genesis may we not hope to discover the deepest truths of life and mind before the complex symbols which we call words came into use and hence before the mind acquired the faculty of forming thoughts or extended comparisons activities or motions were the only medium of expression between sentient beings language is the development of these expressive actions and so highly complex has it become so far removed from its rude beginnings that it seems another order of creation a system of miraculous origin but when we remember that intelligence is a concomitant development with language that thought or spirit is but a building up of words into ideas and that these words are merely condensed memories common experiences which have become current from tongue to tongue is it not evident that there is no impenetrable mystery in speech and that its product mind is a synthesis of simple and familiar truths again when we retrace sensibility or feeling from which language has been gradually evolved to its beginnings in organic life we find no absolute demarcations we find that all life whether mental or physical is interdependent introduction
