the middle east and north africa mena is a large complex and diverse region which faces a wide range of economic issues the mena group includes algeria bahrain cyprus djibouti egypt iran iraq israel jordan kuwait lebanon libya morocco oman qatar saudi arabia syria tunisia turkey united arab emirates and yemen this book uses analytical tools drawn from the trade labor finance and development literature to critically analyze and compare these countries economic policies the approach taken in this book is to focus on the economic policies and institutional arrangements which have evolved in mena and which may serve to explain the differences in each country s economic performance the key objective of the book is to unravel the context specific variety of growth promoting policies within mena rather than focus on specific countries this book stresses that the poor performance of arab mena can be chiefly explained by their aversion to a western paradigm of market economics in the advanced industrial countries and in israel globalization is largely viewed in economic terms the free movement of goods services labor and capital across borders in the arab mena however globalization is viewed in largely ideological terms and has been regarded as a new version of imperialism consequently the arab mena region remains one of the most un globalized regions in the world the book serves as both a textbook and a summary of the very large literature on mena it examines the following economic realities of the region and compares them across the mena economies technology gap and comparative development the value of education and human capital development water and food security the economics and politics of oil population growth role of gender and labor mobility the role of the state as economic actor the economic value of democracy the prospects for regional integration

this book surveys major economic issues in the development of countries in the middle east and north africa mena region since world war ii it presents a framework of analysis highlighting underlying continuities in the region s approach to issues of growth management of oil and natural resources post conflict environments progress in trade liberalization and regional integration the use of industrial policy labor market adjustment and unemployment educational attainment and poverty incidence at the same time this book focuses on emerging differences across countries in the region in the prevailing approach to addressing such challenges most notably between the economies of the gulf cooperation council and other mena countries this book also incorporates a discussion of tools and methods used by development practitioners and briefly examines issues of aid effectiveness the approach used is intended to appeal to a wide audience including students of economic development political scientists and development practitioners examines the growth and transformation of the middle east economy during the 19th and early 20th centuries the text looks at how the region's economic structures were fundamentally altered by the growing impact of european trade and finance and by the internal reforms of the rulers of egypt it also examines in detail the impact of this process on the four central areas of the middle east the result the author argues was the creation of a fixed pattern of agricultural industrial and financial activity the states formed after the collapse of the ottoman empire found that altering this pattern in their attempts to promote a less dependent form of development was fraught with difficulty and the problems they faced and their different approaches are still highly relevant to the middle east's economic development today

the middle east and north africa mena is a large complex and diverse region which faces a wide range of economic issues the mena group includes algeria bahrain cyprus djibouti egypt iran iraq israel jordan kuwait lebanon libya morocco oman qatar saudi arabia syria tunisia turkey united arab emirates and yemen the purpose of this book is not to provide a country by country study but rather to deal with general economic themes found in arab mena and israel such as problems associated with growth and structural change the role of state intervention in country specific local markets labor market imperfections driven by gender bias technology gaps and endogenous growth capital market development in a restricted financial model based on religious constraints savings and investment behaviour in a model of state subsidization and intervention designed to control local development and the role of the state in constraining private sector activity data sources used in this second edition include country specific data the world bank the united nations the international monetary fund and the organisation for economic co-operation and development the new material in this second edition includes a discussion of the impending and inevitable leadership changes which will occur throughout arab mena over the next decades the evidence to support this evaluation is based on the current lack of transparent markets the lack of inclusive macro policies the impact of distortionary micro economic policies across all sectors and the impact of anti-globalization and xenophobia on innovation old chapters are revised with updated data a discussion of the role of the state and oligarchies in the economies of most of the mena countries an in-depth exploration of the investment in human capital and growth and an identification of the most important binding constraints to economic development in arab mena and israel this book serves as both a textbook and a summary of the very large literature on mena it examines the economic realities of the region and compares them across the mena economies it should be stressed that this book is not about the latest political debate on who did what to whom in the middle east or in north africa the focus is on economics not political economics offering a comprehensive analysis of the development of economies in the middle east and north africa over the past half century this book charts the progress of these countries through an examination of an islamic model of economic development reform processes and economic integration far from being a simple process economic development in the middle east and north africa is dependent on the interaction of a set of changing systems including international relations the political regime economy and society by analysing these interdependent factors the economic development process in mena seeks to provide answers to the most pressing issues facing the economies in this area providing an interpretation of regional development in light of dialectics between state and society this book will be of value to students and scholars with an interest in the middle east economics and international relations countries in the middle east have very different economies even if they are often grouped together in the economics of the middle east james rauch focuses on the drivers of their distinctiveness including the effects of their natural endowments geographic locations and interactions with the global economy this book evaluates the socioeconomic trajectories of three groups of middle eastern states sub saharan african fuel endowed and mediterranean it compares these groups both to each other and to developing countries in other regions with similar characteristics rauch draws on basic approaches to economic development to enhance understanding of important issues such as how policies on gender education health and the environment affect development his comparative perspective sheds light on how and why the arab countries iran and turkey have done better or worse than similar countries in other regions his analysis throughout is supported by data that are well organized and clearly presented rauch develops new insights on topics as diverse as unemployment urbanization corruption and the importance of intraregional flows of investment and migrants the result is a fascinating and balanced overview of the socioeconomic performance of the arab countries iran and turkey that presents a new lens on the economics of the middle east diwan and galal looks at the structure and prospects of the middle east economies after the 2011 uprisings focusing on issues of economic growth inequality the impact of oil and the unfolding political transitions on the growth question the book looks into the extent of structural transformation of the economy the political economy reasons for the lack of structural change and the external conditions in the eu and in the gcc that underpin the lack of structural change on inequality the book offers new measures of equality of opportunity in human development and in the job market and it also reviews the complex political economy of subsidy removal regarding natural resources the volume provides three innovations connecting the notion of oil curse to the global phenomena of asset bubbles evidence that resource curse effects do not rise monotonically with the size of the resource rent but rather according to an inverted u shape and an extension of the concept of rent to the other non oil rents that are also predominant in the region finally the volume places the political transition in the region in a global perspective using various methods theoretical comparative and empirical and it explores the relationship between democracy in its variety of forms and economic development the emerging consensus that institutions shape political and economic outcomes has produced few theories of institutional change and no defensible theory of institutional origination kiren aziz chaudhry shows how state and market institutions are created and transformed in saudi arabia and yemen two countries that typify labor and oil exporters in the developing world in a world where the international economy dramatically affects domestic developments the question of where institutions come from becomes at once more urgent and more complex in both saudi arabia and yemen fundamental state and market institutions forged during a period of isolation at the end of world war i were destroyed and reshaped not once but three times in response to exogenous shocks comparing boom bust cycles chaudhry exposes the alternating social and organizational origins of institutions arguing that both broad changes in the international economy and specific forms of international integration shape institutional outcomes labor and oil exporters thus experience identical economic cycles but generate radically different state market and financial institutions in response to different resource flows chaudhry supplemented years of field work in saudi arabia and yemen with extensive analysis of previously unavailable materials in the saudi national archives monographic compilation of essays on the economic development prospects of middle east countries in the politics context of the 1970 s covers the impact of war and peace efforts on the gross national product and trade of arab country the economic implications of the defence role of usa and the role of ussr in political problems with israel etc references and statistical tables this new edition examines how development in the middle east is being influenced by global economic change this comparative textbook focuses on the region s strengths and highlights development success especially in the gulf turkey and israel the major structural changes in the economies of the middle east are analysed and current employment challenges are discussed the impact of demographic changes is considered notably the dramatic decline in birth rates which will have implications for future employment the contribution of banks and capital markets to the region s development is appraised including that of islamic financial institutions which play a prominent role in the gulf cooperation council gcc countries but are on the margins of the financial systems elsewhere historically development in the gcc was linked to oil and gas production and prices a key issue being whether these are being decoupled as economies diversify and become more self sustaining the evidence on this from the gcc is encouraging with transparent and accountable financial management and major improvements in economic governance despite the lack of democracy examining the drivers of economic development in the middle east in a regional and global context this fully updated textbook is a key resource for students and academics interested in economic development and the political economy of the middle east the economic history of the middle east and north africa is quite extraordinary this is an axiomatic statement but the very nature of the economic changes that have stemmed directly from the effects of oil resources in these areas has tended to obscure longterm patterns of economic change and the fundamental transformation of middle eastern and north african economies and societies over the past two hundred years in this study professor issawi examines and explains the development of these economies since 1800 focusing particularly on the challenge posed by the use and subsequent decline of western economic and political domination and the middle eastern response to it the book begins with an analysis of the effects of foreign intervention in the area the expansion of trade the development of transport networks the influx of foreign capital and resulting integration into international commercial and financial networks it goes on to examine the local response to these external forces migration within to and from the region population growth urbanization and changes in living standards shifts in agricultural production and land tenure and the development of an industrial sector professor issawi discusses the crucial effects of the growth of oil and oil related industries in a separate chapter and finally assesses the likely gains and losses in this long period for both the countries in the area and the western powers he has drawn on long experience and an immense amount of material in surveying the period and provides a clear and penetrating survey of an extraordinarily complex area the middle east is an area of great importance globally yet misperceptions abound events have made it a region of special interest to the west and so the search for understanding gains momentum this publication is intended to clarify the region's complex history and issues in developing this project the contributors set out to explore seven significant themes that are usually not found in other sources while many books focus on political history and conflicts this two volume work deals specifically with culture religion women economics governance and media as well as the role that the region's modern history has played in shaping its society and worldview
