this book aims at contributing to the scientific and academic discourse as regards to the what and why of youth ministry too often youth ministry has been approached from a mainly practical point of view almost asking how we keep young people off the streets its methodology has often not included the theological and theoretical presuppositions that lie behind this ministry previous scientific reflection has been determined by a one dimensional and almost exclusive point of view in comparison with existing literature this book does not focus so much on the how of youth ministry it innovates a different approach the book challenges the existing exclusive approach and develops an inclusive congregational and missional understanding of and approach to youth ministry from a particular perspective on the understanding the main objectives of practical theology the author endorses the so called movement of what is supposed to be going on he adds the outcome of an empirical round table discussion with some 16 leaders in this field on the descriptive and interpretive movements within the subject field what is going on and why is it going on the book will form the standard for any new research with regard to youth ministry the book s contribution lies on the level of sound theological reasoning and argumentation supported by many scholars for an inclusive congregational understanding of ministry as an integral part of every congregation being missional in being and doing youth children adolescents and emerging adults are just as integral a part of every congregation within which they live and serve the author s starting point is the interweaving of forgiveness and resentment in the works of jewish writers after the holocaust most especially hannah arendt and jean am®ry to make sense of the catastrophe and to point to a way forward for both victims and perpetrators the insights of these two writers and of several jewish novelists and poets including bruno schulz paul celan and aharon appelfeld are used to develop accounts of forgiveness and resentment in other cases of mass atrocity around the world the author offers a critical rereading of primary sources that aim to separate resentment from nonviolent resistance and forgiveness from reconciliation forgiveness and resentment are not as they might first appear mutually exclusive together with arendt amory and walter benjamin it is argued that it is through the interaction between them that victims of mass atrocity become agents of personal and cultural change together forgiveness and resentment interrupt the present reframe the past and shape the future they can reduce the chasm that separates memory and trust by fashioning new connections between identity and alterity which can open paths to truly ethical coexistence for victims and perpetrators and their descendants encounter with a reproduction of Rembrandt's The Return of the Prodigal Son catapulted Henri Nouwen on an unforgettable spiritual adventure. Here he shares the deeply personal and resonant meditation that led him to discover the place within where God has chosen to dwell. As Nouwen reflects on Rembrandt's painting in light of his own life journey, he evokes a powerful drama of the classic parable in a rich, captivating way that is sure to reverberate in the hearts of readers. Nouwen probes the several movements of the parable: the younger son's return, the father's restoration of sonship, the elder son's resentfulness, and the father's compassion. The themes of homecoming, affirmation, and reconciliation will be newly discovered by all who have known loneliness, dejection, jealousy, or anger. The challenge to love as God loves and to be loved as God's beloved will be seen as the ultimate revelation of the parable known to Christians throughout time and is here represented with a vigor and power fresh for our times.
