as the aspirations of the two rising asian powers collide the china india rivalry is likely to shape twenty first century international politics in the region and far beyond this volume by t v paul and an international group of leading scholars examines whether the rivalry between the two countries that began in the 1950s will intensify or dissipate in the twenty first century the china india relationship is important to analyze because past experience has shown that when two rising great powers share a border the relationship is volatile and potentially dangerous india and china's relationship faces a number of challenges including multiple border disputes that periodically flare up division over the status of tibet and the dalai lama the strategic challenge to india posed by china's close relationship with pakistan the chinese navy's greater presence in the indian ocean and the two states competition for natural resources despite these irritants however both countries agree on issues such as global financial reforms and climate change and have much to gain from increasing trade and investment so there are reasons for optimism as well as pessimism the contributors to this volume answer the following questions what explains the peculiar contours of this rivalry what influence does accelerated globalization especially increased trade and investment have on this rivalry what impact do us china competition and china's expanding navy have on this rivalry under what conditions will it escalate or end the china india rivalry in the globalization era will be of great interest to students scholars and policymakers concerned with indian and chinese foreign policy and asian security iranian ambitions in the persian gulf and rivalries with arab neighbours are subject to intense and heated speculation controversy and debate here farzad cyrus sharifi scrutinises the rival arab iranian claims to bahrain the shatt al arab waterway and the abu musa and tunbs islands in the years after world war ii and before the iranian revolution through investigation of previously unexamined primary materials and interviews with leading players this book sheds new light on the evolution and dynamics of hegemonic and nationalistic arab iranian rivalries and how these rivalries began to find symbolic expression through territorial disputes sharifi illustrates that these ongoing disputes and the deep seated tensions still prevalent in arab iranian relations are largely rooted in how they were constructed in the post world war ii period making this book vital reading for researchers of the politics history international relations and diplomacy of the middle east enduring rivalries recurrently ensnare states in militarized disputes and wars are they poised to intensify in the asia pacific a region characterized by regime and cultural differences territorial contests and competing nationalist and regime claims it is often argued that these conditions and recent power shifts are likely to lead to conflict escalation and contagion especially in sino american relations steve chan's book challenges this common view and argues instead that asia pacific rivalries are likely to be held in abeyance he suggests that the majority of leaders in the region wish to base their political legitimacy on their economic performance rather than popular mobilization against foreign enemies economic interdependence and political multilateralism have restrained and in some cases reversed rivalries although asia pacific states will continue to quarrel chan argues that their relations are more stable today than at any other time since 1945 why do some enduring violent rivalries between states end peacefully while others drag on interminably or cease only with the complete collapse or defeat of one of the states eric cox provides extensive evidence to support his explanation of how these disputes end comparing successful and failed attempts to terminate rivalries in latin america and the middle east
