when the canadian government committed forces to join the military mission in afghanistan following the terrorist attacks of september 11 2001 little did it foresee that this decision would involve canada in a war riven country for over a decade the politics of war explores how as the mission became increasingly unpopular canadian politicians across the political spectrum began to use it to score points against their opponents this was politics with a vengeance through historical analysis of the public record and interviews with officials jean christophe boucher and kim richard nossal show how the canadian government sought to frame the engagement in afghanistan as a mission rather than what it was a war they examine the efforts of successive governments to convince canadians of the rightness of canada s engagement the parliamentary politics that resulted from the increasing politicization of the mission and the impact of public opinion on canada s involvement this contribution to the field of canadian foreign policy demonstrates how much of canada s war in afghanistan was shaped by the vagaries of domestic politics and political gamesmanship canada s back announced the victorious liberal party in october 2015 after almost ten years of conservative party rule the harper era in canadian foreign policy was over suggesting a return to the priorities of gentler more cooperative liberal governments but was the harper era really so different and if so why this comprehensive analysis of canada s foreign policy during the harper years addresses these very questions the chapters written by leading scholars and analysts of canadian politics provide an excellent overview of foreign policy in a number of different policy areas they also offer differing interpretations as to whether the transition from a minority to majority government in 2011 shaped the way that the harper conservatives conceived of developed and implemented international policy the analysis is gripping and the findings surprising particularly the contention that the government s shift to majority status was far less important to foreign policy under harper than it had been under previous governments the reasons why reveal important insights into the harper decade of foreign policy the imagination of america s political elites is dominated by a unipolar vision according to which the world is dominated by the united states but the real world is increasingly plural and others instinctively fear and resist the american vision chapters 2 and 3 of this book look at the disastrous consequences of the vision at work in the middle east and in europe chapters 4 5 and 6 assess the limits of american power chapter 7 discusses the problems of order and coexistence in a world that is not unipolar but increasingly plural it speculates on the possible contributions and likely fate of both old america and new europe as models for organizing the future america s own constitutional equilibrium david calleo argues increasingly requires friendly balancing from europe both sides of the west must liberate their imaginations from past triumphs to face their responsibilities to the new world and to each other through interviews with key policy practitioners on both sides of the atlantic this study reveals the complex picture of counter narcotics strategy in afghanistan it highlights the key points of cooperation and contention and details the often contradictory and competitive objectives of the overall war effort in afghanistan western counter narcotics policies in afghanistan failed dismally after opium poppy cultivation surged to unprecedented levels the anglo american partnership at the centre of this battleground was divided by competing and opposing views of how to address the opium problem which troubled the well established anglo american relationship canadian literature and medicine breaks new ground by formulating a series of frameworks with which to read and interpret a national literature derived from the very fabric of that literature in this case canadian canadian literature is of particular interest because of its consideration of coloniality indigeneity and coincident development alongside a nascent socialized medical system currently under threat from neoliberalism the first chapters of the book carefully track the development of canada s socialized medical system as it manifests in the imaginations of the nation's poets and authors who depict care reciprocal flows are investigated in which these poets and authors are quoted in policy documents the archive based methodology is sustained in subsequent chapters that rely upon a unique interdisciplinary mix of medical history philosophy of medicine medical policy theory inherent to the field of canadian literature focusing in particular on the garrison mentality as a form of aesthetic protest and the feminist ethics of care and indigenous ways of knowing this eclac annual report sets out and analyses the main foreign direct investment fdi trends in the countries of latin america and the caribbean in the region fdi inflows were up by 13.2 year on year for the first time in five years at us 184.287 billion this performance is explained by higher flows into just a few countries however mainly brazil and mexico moreover it does not reflect equity investment but higher inflows in the form of intercompany loans and to a lesser extent reinvestment of earnings manufactures and services were the sectors receiving most equity although there was a slight rise in investment in natural resource sectors compared with 2018 many people whether educators or not will agree that an education that does not inspire wonder is barren wonder is commonly perceived as akin to curiosity as stimulating inquiry and as something that enhances pleasure in learning but there are many experiences of wonder that do not have an obvious place in education in wonder and education anders schinkel theorises a kind of wonder with less obvious yet fundamental educational importance which he calls contemplative wonder contemplative wonder disrupts frameworks of understanding that are taken for granted and perceived as natural and draws our attention to the world behind our constructions sparking our interest in the world as something worth attending to for its own sake rather than for our purposes it opens up space for the consideration of radical alternatives wherever it occurs and in many cases is linked with deep experiences of value therefore it is not just important for education in general but also more specifically for moral and political education
