the 11th international congress for analytical psychology was held in paris from 28 august to 2 september 1989 it is no surprise that the theme of personal and archetypal dynamics in the analytical relationship succeeded in drawing widely varying and controversial responses more than ever before the fifty five contributors of papers represent jungian groups from around the globe in every sense however while differences of approach are evident throughout this fascinating collection so too is an ever more significant sense of synthesis in the end we all share a common task in the years since the publication of the wounded healer countertransference has become a central consideration in the analytic process david sedgwick's work was ground breaking in tackling this difficult topic from a jungian perspective and demonstrating how countertransference can be used in positive ways sedgwick's extended study of the process candidly presents the analyst's struggles and shows how the analyst is as jung said as much in the analysis as the patient the book extends jung's prescient work on countertransference to create a dynamic view of the analyst patient interaction stressing the importance of the analyst's own woundedness and how this may be used in conjunction with the patient's own sedgwick begins with a discussion of the need and justification for a jungian approach to countertransference then reviews jungian theories and presents detailed illustrations of cases showing the complexity of transference countertransference processes in both the patient and the analyst and concludes with a model of countertransference processing this classic edition also includes a new introduction by the author it will be an important work for jungian analysts psychotherapists and other clinicians and students interested in the struggles of the therapeutic process sabina spielrein who has been mostly known for her relation with her analyst carl jung came to the attention of the wider public following the discovery and publication of some of her diaries and personal letters some 40 years ago the focus on her relationship with jung and her personal story have consequently led to a neglect of her writings with many of her crucial texts even remaining untranslated into english sabina spielrein and the poetry of psychoanalysis seeks to re address this distortion of her legacy by examining her original contribution to the field such as her early analytical work with children spielrein referred to moments of intimacy between herself and jung as poetry indeed as a response to what can be considered the inevitable failure in her relationship to jung spielrein wrote poetry and songs notes and theoretical papers these writings are examined here as her means of finishing her own analysis she was the first person to become an psychoanalyst through her own psychoanalysis a path that would later be recognised as a necessary part of the training for any analyst the book traces the poetry of sabina spielrein s writing through both its content and style examining the effect of these writings upon psychoanalysis and inserting them into a lineage of what lacan would later call the passee a device that is open for the analysand to finish his or her analysis and accede to the place of psychoanalyst this book will be of interest to scholars and practitioners of psychoanalysis and other clinicians including those who work with children those interested in the early history of psychoanalysis and those concerned with women s writing more generally
