canada s public higher education system is in trouble the economic and social benefits of the canadian university system are widely seen as a public good which raises a pressing question why should we aspire to anything less than a great system for that to happen everything about the way universities currently operate from the boardroom to the classroom must change but this kind of operational and public policy transformation will not be easy nothing less than great provides an expert analysis of the current state and challenges of canada s university system looking for positive change by reclaiming what a university is meant to offer for society and for citizens harvey p weingarten begins with the fundamental question that all students must ask about higher education is it worth going to university from there he stresses the need for transparency about what universities do and what they accomplish addresses the importance of modernizing curriculum to emphasize skills over content and provides recommendations for reform exploring how universities might and should change to reclaim their central purpose for Canadians nothing less than great will be of interest to anyone who cares about the future of our country and the important role universities play in determining that future

This volume presents the major outcomes of the third edition of the Future of Higher Education Bologna Process Researchers Conference (FHPRC 3) which was held on 27-29 November 2017. It acknowledges the importance of a continued dialogue between researchers and decision makers and benefits from the experience already acquired this way enabling the higher education community to bring its input into the 2018-2020 European Higher Education Area (EHEA) priorities. The Future of Higher Education Bologna Process Researchers Conference (FHPRC) has already established itself as a landmark in the European higher education environment. The two previous editions (17-19 October 2011 and 24-26 November 2014) with approximately 200 European and international participants each covering more than 50 countries each were organized prior to the ministerial conferences thus encouraging a consistent dialogue between researchers and policy makers. The main conclusions of the FHPRC conferences were presented at the EHEA ministerial conferences in 2012 and 2015 in order to make the voice of researchers better heard by European policy and decision makers. This volume is dedicated to continuing the collection of evidence and research based policymaking and further narrowing the gap between policy and research within the EHEA and broader global contexts. It aims to identify the research areas that require more attention prior to the anniversary 2020 EHEA ministerial conference with an emphasis on the new issues on rise in the academic and educational community. This book gives a platform for discussion on key issues between researchers, various direct higher education actors, decision makers and the wider public. This book is published under an open access CC BY license.

The emergence of fully online, hybrid and blended forms of higher education has led governments, quality assurance agencies and higher education institutions (HEIs) across the OECD to reflect on how to ensure that digital education provides learners with opportunities to reach learning and employment outcomes similar to those achieved through traditional in-person instruction. Building on stakeholder engagement and comparative analysis, this report offers an assessment of Hungary's quality assurance system for higher education and more specifically its strengths and weaknesses for assuring the quality of digital higher education.
