this book gives a critique of the contemporary global capitalist system and the adverse consequences suffered by the developing countries as a result of their integration into this system the current neoliberal paradigm of capitalist development as the only or the best alternative for the economic social and political development of the developing countries is rejected the authors search for more human and ecologically sustainable alternatives focusing on latin america asia and women contributors are david barkijn robert n gwynne richard l harris cristóbal kay jorge nef mustapha kamal pasha cathy a rakowski wilder robles melinda j seid and john weeks faced with an increasingly diverse student population an expanding field of gender scholarship and an academic emphasis on multidisciplinarity social science professors often struggle to address and integrate such a broad array of gender issues in their courses this book addresses that challenge by increasing students understandings of gender relations in multiple social fields across time and space gender relations in global perspective is truly multidisciplinary it is partially drawn from the work of sociologists but articles written by gender scholars from the disciplines of cultural studies history political science geography and literary theory are also included the readings examine historically persistent cross culturally relevant and empirically grounded concerns such as men s position in the family and women s relationship to work media and the global economy as well as the gendered problems of violence sexuality and reproduction and racism this book presents an engaging range of comparative and cross cultural gender analyses from various world regions including the middle east south asia south east asia europe the americas and africa as the articles are dialogically situated in this text readers will be able to analyse gender similarities and differences around the globe and learn about the diversity of gender experiences across cultures and regions this range of analyses demonstrates how a global perspective enriches feminist analyses students will quickly learn that to investigate gender dynamics adequately attention must be paid simultaneously to the processes of racialization class colonialism and imperialism and sexuality that interweave with gender to produce complex forms of oppression moving beyond a narrow definition of economics this pioneering book advances our knowledge of global political economy and how we might critically respond to it v spike peterson clearly shows how two key features of the global economy increasingly determine everyday lives worldwide the first is explosive growth in financial markets that shape business decision making and public policy making and the second is dramatic growth in informal and flexible work arrangements that shape income generation and family wellbeing these developments though widely recognized are rarely analyzed as inextricable and interacting dimensions of globalization using a new theoretical model peterson demonstrates the interdependence of reproductive productive and virtual economies and analyzes inequalities of race gender class and nation as structural features of neoliberal globalization presenting a methodologically plural cross disciplinary and well documented account of globalization the author integrates marginalized and disparate features of globalization to provide an accessible narrative from a postcolonial feminist vantage point john maynard keynes expected that around the year 2030 people would only work 15 hours a week in the mid 1960s jean fourastié still anticipated the introduction of the 30 hour week in the year 2000 when productivity would continue to grow at an established pace productivity growth slowed down somewhat in the 1970s and 1980s but rebounded in the 1990s with the spread of new information and communication technologies the knowledge economy however did not bring about a jobless future or a world without work as some scholars had predicted with few exceptions work hours of full time employees have hardly fallen in the advanced capitalist countries in the last three decades while in a number of countries they have actually increased since the 1980s this book takes the persistence of long work hours as starting point to investigate the relationship between capitalism and work time it does so by discussing major theoretical schools and their explanations for the length and distribution of work hours as well as tracing major changes in production and reproduction systems and analyzing their consequences for work hours furthermore this volume explores the struggle for shorter work hours starting from the introduction of the ten hour work day in the nineteenth century to the introduction of the 35 hour week in france and germany at the end of the twentieth century however the book also shows how neoliberalism has eroded collective work time regulations and resulted in an increase and polarization of work hours since the 1980s finally the book argues that shorter work hours not only means more free time for workers but also reduces inequality and improves human and ecological sustainability february 1995 legislation entitled the budget implementation act repealed the canada assistance plan and introduced the canada health social transfer this publication begins with a review of the plan what the new act has taken away from national social programs the history of national standards for social programs the federal role in setting such standards and implications for women and the poor chapter 2 describes the equality commitments made by canada both internationally and domestically chapter 3 examines the application of equality rights when economic policies are challenged in the courts chapter 4 explores more closely the content of the rights instruments available to women and sets out interpretations of equality guarantees that can be responsive to women s material inequality and that draw on the richness and complexity of canada s equality commitments the final chapter considers the work that women must do to ensure that both social programs and equality guarantees can be responsive to women s needs and aspirations future directions are suggested for the rapid influx of women into the paid labor force has dramatically altered north american and european economies in the postwar period this volume compares the feminization of labor in the u s canada britain france germany italy and sweden examining the status of working women under a variety of governmental policies economic systems and labor conditions this book examines all the fundamental aspects of canadian foreign policy from a feminist point of view the contributions seek to deconstruct the gendered nature of discourse on and about canadian foreign policy the goal of the collection is first to deconstruct the dominant concepts of the discourse surrounding canadian foreign policy as articulated by key government officials and agencies the second goal is to consider the practices of foreign policies that is to ask how the discourse becomes creates ignores silences and limits particular policy practices and ways of thinking and doing in so doing it puts forward a distinctive thesis namely that within late modernity gender and sexuality are being reworked in terms of categories of reflexivity and risk it shows that this reworking places increasing significance on issues of mobility and identity in late modernity it therefore outlines the politics of mobility in regard to identity suggesting that mobility is an important but often neglected source of power in late modernity revisions gender and sexuality in late modernity will be essential reading for advanced undergraduates research students and academics working in the fields of feminist theory social theory sociology women s studies and cultural studies jacket this textbook on women s studies offers a comprehensive and critical analysis of the major issues and topics within key areas of the subject including feminist theory race sexuality violence education the family representation work and debates within women s studies itself this vital new work documents the constitutional struggles of leading feminist organizations in canada it examines the complexities of women s constitutional organizing by assessing various feminist organizations strategies and tactics over time in doing so the book highlights some representation struggles of the women s movement as it crosses and recrosses representational boundaries traces the history of industrialization from its origins in the industrial revolution and provides overviews of theories of social change including the perspectives of marx durkheim and weber the text makes cross national comparisons of all nations in the world for which adequate data exists an up to date overview of all types of home based work is provided in this volume which makes an important contribution to sociological and policy debates on homeworking the authors argue that homeworking replicates wider divisions in the labour force and that its potential for improving women s employment opportunities is therefore limited using original research they outline the advantages and disadvantages the pay and conditions and the family situations for contemporary women homeworkers gender class racism and ethnicity are shown to be key factors in constructing the homeworking labour force the authors acknowledge the shared position that homeworkers occupy as women as well as the differences experienced b
