lyn hejinian is one of today's most esteemed and widely read poets her poetic autobiography my life has gained an almost legendary reputation and is taught in many university and college courses the cell her latest poetic sequence was written over a period of her life from october 6 1986 to january 21 1989 a time of exploration of the relation of the self to the world of the objective person to the subjective being as private as my arm as the title suggests the cell of this work connotes several things some contradictory biological life imprisonment closure and circulation but it is just the relationships and oppositions of these that hejinian searches out in a poetry that like her previous work displays a magical blend of logic and contradiction of narrative impetus stopped in its tracks by aphoristic wit these poems will continue to establish her as the inheritor of the rich and intense language of american writers such as gertrude stein and emily dickinson book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved
