mireille daughter of a french diplomat ousmane son of a poor muslim family in senegal two childhood sweethearts forced to share their love in secret their marriage shocks and dismays both sets of parents but it soon becomes clear that their youthful optimism and love is a poor defense against the pressures of society as ousmane is lured back to his roots mireille is left humiliated isolated and alone the tyranny of tradition and chauvinism is brilliantly exposed in this passionate plea for human understanding

this is a cogent analysis of the complexities of gender in the work of nine contemporary anglophone and francophone novelists offers illuminating interpretations of worthy writers multicultural review this book reaffirms bessie head's remark that books are a tool in this case a tool that allows readers to understand better the rich lives and the condition of african women excellent notes and a rich bibliography choice a college level analysis which will appeal to any interested in african studies and literature the bookwatch this book applies gender as a category of analysis to the works of nine sub saharan women writers aidoo bá beyala dangarembga emecheta head liking tlali and zanga tsogo the author appropriates western feminist theories of gender in an african literary context and in the process she finds and names critical theory that is african indigenous self determining which she then melds with western feminist theory and comes out with an over arching theory that enriches western post colonial and african critical perspectives
