in 2007 for the first time in human history a majority of the world's population lived in cities however on a global scale poverty overwhelmingly retains a rural face this book assembles an unparalleled group of internationally eminent scholars in the field of rural development and social change in order to explore historical and contemporary processes of agrarian change and transformation and their consequent impact upon the livelihoods poverty and well being of those who live in the countryside the book provides a critical analysis of the extent to which rural development trajectories have in the past and are now promoting a change in rural production processes the accumulation of rural resources and shifts in rural politics and the implications of such trajectories for peasant livelihoods and rural workers in an era of globalization peasants and globalization thus explores continuity and change in the debate on the agrarian question from its early formulation in the late 19th century to the continuing relevance it has in our times including chapters from terence byres amiya bagchi ellen wood farshad araghi henry bernstein saturnino m borras ray kiely michael watts and philip mcmichael collectively the contributors argue that neoliberal social and economic policies have in deepening the market imperative governing the contemporary world food system not only failed to tackle to underlying causes of rural poverty but have indeed deepened the agrarian crisis currently confronting the livelihoods of peasant farmers and rural workers this crisis does not go unchallenged as rural social movements have emerged for the first time on a transnational scale confronting development policies that are unable to reduce let alone eliminate rural poverty transnational rural social movements are attempting to construct a more just future for the world's farmers and rural workers thirty years of economic transformation has turned china into one of the major players in the global capitalist economy however its economic growth has generated rising problems in inequality alienation and sustainability with the agrarian crises of the 1990s giving rise to real social outcry to the extent that they became the object of central government policy reformulations contributing to a paradigm shift in the theory and practices of economic development this book examines the concept of social economy in china and around the world it offers to rethink space economy and community in a trans border context which moves us beyond both planned and market economies the chapters address theoretical issues critical reflections and case studies on the practice of social economy in the context of globalization and its attempt to create an alternative modernity through this the book builds a platform for further cross disciplinary and cross boundary dialogue on the future of social economy in china and the world with examples from asia north america latin america and europe this book will not only appeal to students and scholars of chinese and asian social policy and development but also those of social economy from an international perspective taking a unique comparative approach to the respective development paths of india brazil and south africa ibsa this book shows that people and governments in all three countries are faced with similar challenges of heightened insecurity caused by liberalization and structural adjustment the ways in which governments as well as individuals and worker organisations in ibsa have responded to these challenges are at the core of this book the book explores the nature of insecurity in the global south the nature of the responses to this insecurity on public and small scale collective as well as individual level the potential of these responses to be more than neo liberal mechanisms to govern and contain the poor and lessons to be learnt from these three countries the first section covers livelihood strategies in urban and rural areas as individual and small scale collective response to the condition of insecurity insecurity in the countries of the south is characterised by a high degree of uncertainty of the availability of income opportunities the second section looks at state responses to insecurity and contributions on social protection measures taken by the respective ibsa governments the third section discusses whether alternative development paths can be identified the aim is to move beyond denunciatory analysis livelihood strategies as well as public policies in some of the cases allow for the building of new spaces for agency and contestation of a neo liberal mainstream which provide emerging and experimental examples the book develops new thinking on northern welfare states and their declining trade unions it argues that these concepts knowledge and policy innovations are now travelling in three directions from north to south from south to north and between southern countries this book provides unique insights for researchers and postgraduate students in development studies social policy and industrial sociology the redistribution of land has profound implications for women and for gender relations however gender issues have been marginalised from both theoretical and policy discussions of agrarian reform this book presents an overview of gender and agrarian reform experiences globally jacobs highlights case studies from latin america asia africa and eastern europe and also compares agrarian and land reforms organised along collective lines as well as along individual household lines this volume will be of interest to scholars in geography women s studies and economics this is a revised and expanded edition of a popular textbook on the economics of farm households in developing countries the second edition retains the same building blocks designed to explore household decision making in a social context key topics are efficiency risk time allocation gender agrarian contracts farm size and technological change for these and other topics household economic behaviour represents the outcome of social interactions within the household and market interactions outside the household a new chapter on the environment combines exposition of economic tools not previously covered in the book with examination of household and community decision making in relation to environmental resources explains how the 2008 financial meltdown came about and how to revitalize global and domestic economies shows how capitalist economies developed and why the state matters in their functioning free market purists claim that the state is an inefficient institution that does little for society beyond providing stability and protection the activities related to distributing resources and economic growth they say are better left to the invisible hand of the marketplace these notions now seem tragically misguided in the wake of the 2008 market collapse and bailout mark martinez describes how the flawed myth of the invisible hand distorted our understanding of how modern capitalist markets developed and actually work martinez draws from history to illustrate that political processes and the state are not only instrumental in making capitalist markets work but that there would be no capitalist markets or wealth creation without state intervention he brings his story up to the present day to show how the seeds of an unprecedented government intervention in the financial markets were sown in past actions the myth of the free market is a fascinating and accessible introduction to comparative economic systems as well as an incisive refutation of the standard mantras of neoclassical free market economic theory this text provides an overview of the core cultural anthropology topics while instilling into the student a full sense of the world s diversity
