the word pietism usually conjures up a host of ambivalent impressions it has seemed to me increasingly clear that many of the strengths of pietism have been swept aside by reactions against the excesses of the movement to properly assess the structures of pietism it is important to comprehend its matrix and to understand its exponents in preparing this study therefore i have sought to recapture something of the person of theodorus jacobus frelinghuysen as well as the gist of his thought something of his environment as well as the institutions of his day to achieve this i have traveled many by paths and knocked on many doors but the past has not always yielded its secrets much is lost forever hagen in westphalia frelinghuysen's birthplace is now a modern city and only in a few isolated particulars is it reminiscent of hagen in 1693 in the nearby village of schwerte however the ancestral church of his forebears remains as it was nearly three hundred years ago the gymnasium he attended in hamm was destroyed in the bombings of world war ii though the library he used during his study at lingen is still largely intact in the tiny east frisian village of loegumer voorwerk frelinghuysen's first parish one can still stand in the pulpit where he first preached his awakening gospel yet oddly enough in america where his name is most remembered most physical traces of his life have disappeared security strategies of middle powers in the asia pacific examines what drives the different regional security strategies of four middle powers in the asia pacific australia indonesia south korea and malaysia drawing on the extant middle power literature the authors argue that the regional security strategies of middle powers could take two forms namely functional or normative a functional strategy means that the middle power targets its resources to address a specific problem that it has a high level of interest in while a normative strategy refers to a focus on promoting general behavioural standards and confidence building at the multilateral level this book argues that whether a middle power ultimately employs a more functional or normative regional security strategy depends on its resource availability and strategic environment as oil rich countries in the middle east are increasingly associated with soaring skyscrapers and modern architecture attention is being diverted away from the pervasive struggles of social housing in those same urban settings social housing in the middle east traces the history of social housing both gleaming postmodern projects and bare bones urban housing structures in an effort to provide a wider understanding of marginalized spaces and their impact on identities communities and class while architects may have envisioned utopian or futuristic experiments these buildings were often constructed with the knowledge and skill sets of local workers and the housing was in turn adapted to suit the modern needs of residents this tension between local needs and national aspirations are linked to issues of global importance including security migration and refugee resettlement the essays collected here consider how culture faith and politics influenced the solutions offered by social housing they provide an insightful look at how social housing has evolved since the 19th century and how it will need to adapt to suit the 21st
