argues that the fundamental reason for church state conflict is our aversion to questions of religious truth by trying to avoid the question of religious truth law and religion has ultimately reached a state of incoherence he asserts that the answer to this dilemma is to take the agnostic turn to take an empathetic and imaginative approach to questions of religious truth one that actually confronts rather than avoids these questions but without reaching a final judgment about what that truth is jacket using palestine as a case study recognition politics in settler colonial states shows how recognition politics operate to legitimize long standing colonial power structures in existing scholarship recognition has been seen as an asset coveted by indigenous communities this book forwards a new theoretically ground breaking perspective emile badarin shows that in colonial contexts settlers use recognition to legitimize and normalize the dispossession and elimination of indigenous people more than this settler colonial states themselves actively pursue recognition employing it as a means to further the elimination of the indigenous societies they seek to replace in making the case the book critically examines the euromodern categories of race racism and racial hierarchies and draws new conclusions about the interplay between colonialism racism and zionism central to this analysis is how anti zionism has been strategically equated with anti semitism and effectively used as a tool for the advancement of both settler colonialism in palestine and israel s recognition on the international stage the book delves into indigenous normative resistance against colonial recognition politics through the lens of the palestinian practice of umud steadfastness extracting its philosophy of liberation as a pathway towards a decolonial future for all in palestine and beyond
