most books on terrorism deal with descriptions of terrorist organizations and activities some examine privacy and civil liberties issues and others treat terrorism as a series of policy choices hardly any books deal with the foundational questions of values and violence as they relate to terrorism the two unique features of this book are that it deals with violence at the normative foundations of values and human dignity and that it includes many of the best known authors in the world from a variety of disciplines making it a paradigmatic example of cutting edge study in interdisciplinary scholarship with a focus on bringing theories and policy issues closer together values and violence includes chapters by a dozen of the leading scholars in the world on patterns of political violence responses to terrorism and the basic value choices inherent in them

history education by nature transmits an official version of national identity national identity is not a fixed entity and controversy over history teaching is an essential part of the process of redefining and regenerating the nation france and the united states have in particular experienced demographic and cultural shifts since the 1960s that have resulted in intense debates over national identity this volume examines how each country s national history is represented in primary schools social studies textbooks and curricula and how they handle contemporary issues of ethnicity diversity gender socio economic inequality and patriotism by analyzing each country separately and comparatively it demonstrates how various groups including academics politicians and citizen activists have influenced education and how the process of writing and rewriting history perpetuates a nation drawing on empirical studies of the united states and france this volume provides insight into broader nationalist processes and instructive principles for similar countries in the modern world catastrophic historicism unsettles the historicist constitution of julia de burgos 1914 53 puerto rico s most iconic writer a critical task that necessitates redefining the concept of historicism through readings of aristotle walter benjamin jacques derrida werner hamacher and frank ankersmit mendoza de jesús shows that historicism grounds historical objectivity in the historian s capacity to compose totalizing narratives that domesticate the contingency of the past while critiques of historicism as a realism leave untouched the sovereignty of the historian the book insists that reading the text of history requires an attunement to danger a modality that interrupts historicism by infusing the past with a contingency that evades total appropriation after desedimenting the monumental tradition that has reduced de burgos to a totemic figure catastrophic historicism reads the poet s first collection poema en 20 surcos 1938 mendoza de jesús argues that the historicity of poema crystallizes in the lyrical speaker s self institution as an embodied ipseity which requires producing racialized gendered allegorical figures the bearers of an abject flesh that lack any ontological resistance to modern alienation rather than treating de burgos's poetics of selfhood as the ideal image of puerto rican sovereignty mendoza de jesús endangers this idealization by drawing attention to the abjection that sustains our attachments to ipseity as the form of a truly sovereign life in this way catastrophic historicism not only resets the terms of ongoing critiques of historicism in the humanities it also intervenes in puerto rican historicity for the sake of its transformation fifty years after the korean conflict what is a forgotten war for some americans is an aching memory for china with over a million casualties out of the three million soldiers sent into battle that war looms as large for the people's republic of china prc barely a year old when north korea invaded the south as world war ii does for most other countries it was the first international war fought by the chinese communist regime to halt counterrevolution it was also a war that the chinese fully expected to win by virtue of not only superiority of numbers but also their soldiers superior political quality this book presents a mosaic of memoirs by key chinese military commanders from that war drawing not only on their personal papers but also on still classified archives and on chinese language sources unavailable in english it offers an uncensored behind the scenes story of the communist campaign from the decision to intervene through the truce negotiations that discloses new information on such facets of the war as strategy and tactics use of propaganda and mobilization of the chinese population it also reveals the generals concerns about the possible use of nuclear force and the alleged use of biological and chemical weapons by the united states the book contains a wealth of new materials on the chinese intervention including combat operations logistics political control field command and communications among those whose recollections are recorded then acting chief of staff nie rongzhen reveals how party leadership decided on intervention commander in chief peng dehuai provides personal accounts of major battles and communications with mao and general yang dezhi shares secrets of chinese military strategy and tactics discussing how the army orchestrated each battle to contend with the better equipped un forces the volume also features an updated short history of the prc's conduct of the war based on chinese sources plus rare photos from chinese archives that put readers behind the lines from the chinese side mao's generals remember korea demonstrates that the prc continues to draw military diplomatic and strategic lessons from the war it fought fifty years ago with the world's most powerful military force it offers valuable insight into the chinese way of war and the military mind of mao that will be a rich resource for asian and military scholars

this reference companion reviews all aspects of european nationalism from the french revolution through to the aftermath of world war i when the nationalist issues and problems that are coming to dominate the political history of our own time were already fully established it provides the reader with the necessary facts and figures in a series of chronologies initially europe wide but then charting the fortunes of each separate nation and ethnic group statistical tables nationalist biographies an extended political glossary detailed bibliographies arranged both by topic and by nation and a concise atlas section all presented in an accessible form with commentary sea and turkey and sets nationalism in the british isles the irish scottish and welsh experience alongside that of continental europe it includes less familiar nations and groupings like the icelanders and the gypsies and has a strong geo political emphasis highlighting the interrelationship of history and geography throughout it makes use of the research and skills of social science as well as the traditional work of the historian to throw light on the dynamics and rationale of the nationalist phenomenon in the late 1840s more than one million irish men and women died of starvation and disease and a further two million emigrated in one of the worst european sustenance crises of modern times yet a general feeling persists that the irish famine eluded satisfactory representation writing the famine examines literary texts by writers such as William Carleton, Anthony Trollope, James Clarence Mangan, John Mitchel, and Samuel Ferguson and reveals how they interact with histories, sermons, economic treatises to construct a narrative of the most important and elusive events in Irish history. In this strikingly original and compelling contribution to Irish culture studies, Christopher Moras explores the concept of the famine as a moment of absence. He argues the event constitutes an unspeakable moment in attempts to write the past, a point at which the great Victorian metanarratives of historical change collapse, aligning itself with new historical literary criticism. Writing the Famine examines the attempts of a wide range of nineteenth-century writing to ensure the memorialization of an event which seems to resist representation.

Papers contributed to a series of seminars held at Hyderabad and Surat between 1987 and 1990.

This resource contains antisemitic and racist content.

The essays in this volume seek to explore and explain the origins, nature, and consequences of modern Irish terrorism from the front flap.

Why do the Chinese sometimes speak out against America and yet at other times remain silent? This book takes a provocative and innovative position. Nationalist anti-American rhetoric in China is often really a means for people to criticize their own government rather than that of the US. This book uses a variety of previously untapped sources, including a wide range of news sources within China itself, weblogs, and interviews with prominent figures, to make a powerful new argument about the causes and consequences of the new Chinese nationalism.
