beethoven and composers since his time have taken more liberty in the choice of key these two subjects not being in the same key are generally connected by means of a passage known as the transition connecting episode or bridge passage the transition may consist of new matter or be formed from part of the principal subject the development or part ii of a sonata consists 1 of the development of ideas in the enunciation thus presenting them in different aspects to those already given or 2 of an entirely new episode or 3 of both thematic development and episodic matter professor prout in his applied forms says with mozart s sonata movements in general more episode and less thematic treatment will mostly be found in the free fantasia than with either haydn or beethoven
