few people recall the name of Eirik Thorvaldsson who began life in Jaederen Norway around 950 when he was nine years old his father killed a manor maybe two and was forced to flee with his family to Iceland. Young Eirik grew up in the harsh environs of that wind-swept isle in the North Atlantic. Harsh lands breed harsh men and Eirik fit the mold like his father before him. He battled with neighbors and killed several men in blood feuds, banished from Iceland for three years. He sailed west to seek refuge in an unexplored land. After three years in exile, Eirik returned to Iceland with tales of his discoveries in that new land to the west. He called it Greenland to entice others to join him there. Around 985 he sailed west again from Iceland with twenty-five ships of colonists. History records him as the founder of the first European settlement in Greenland and the father of Leif Eriksson. People remember him best as Erik the Red.

Explore the captivating life of Erik the Red, a formidable figure with flaming red hair, a wild beard, and a temper to match. He is not the type of person most people would choose to cross swords with, and that by all accounts is a fitting description of Erik the Red. This was not a man to be taken lightly or challenged in battle. He was courageous on the battlefield, an accomplished seafarer, indomitable warrior, and unstoppable adventurer. In short, Erik the Red was everything we imagine a Viking to be. Some of the topics covered in this captivating history book include Erik the Red's early life in Norway, the settlement of Iceland, and the Viking Age. Erik's early years in Iceland, murder, most foul, Erik the Explorer settling in Greenland, Greenland to Vinland, Erik's offspring and their voyages to Vinland, decline of Vinland, Erik the Pagan and Christianity in Greenland, the decline of the Greenland colony, modern Greenland, and much, much more. Grand Guignol cinema and the horror genre traces important contributions of the Parisian Grand Guignol theatre's golden age as theoretical considerations of embodiment and affect in the development of horror cinema in the twentieth century. This study traces key components of the Grand Guignol stage as a means to explore the immersive and corporeal aspects of horror cinema from the sound period to today. The book is a means to explore the Grand Guignol not only as a historical place and genre but also theoretically as a conceptual framework that opens up an affective mapping of Grand Guignol attractions in cinema. This study's restoration of a long Grand Guignol tradition in cinema makes it a significant contribution to new theorizations of horror. It brings seemingly disparate traditions into conversation as American, Canadian, French, and Italian cinema are all important sites for thinking through cinematic embodiment. These four countries have developed their own important genres and movements of Grand Guignol cinema: the slasher, the French films of sensation, Canadian body horror, and the giallo. The Grand Guignol famously operated in a dead end of chaptal street in the pigalle district of paris this study offers affective and corporeal readings that open up new byways beyond the dead end of psychoanalytic readings that continues to be dominant in horror genre scholarship
