Few American playwrights have exerted as much influence on the contemporary stage as Sam Shepard. His plays are performed on and off Broadway and in all the major regional American theatres. They are also widely performed and studied in Europe, particularly in Britain, Germany, and France, finding both a popular and scholarly audience. In this collection of seventeen original essays, American and European authors from different professional and academic backgrounds explore the various aspects of Shepard's career: his plays, poetry, music, fiction, acting, directing, and film work. The volume covers the major plays, including Curse of the Starving Class, Buried Child, and True West, as well as other lesser-known but vitally important works. A thorough chronology of Shepard's life and career, together with biographical chapters, a note from the legendary Joseph Chaikin, and an interview with the playwright, give a fascinating first-hand account of an exuberant and experimental personality.

Rereading Shepard draws together 13 original theoretical perspectives on one of America's most important contemporary playwrights, representing a range of critical approaches including semiotics, deconstruction, and feminism. The essays address recent debates emerging in Shepard criticism: these include the status of Shepard's texts within the modernist tradition, on the one hand, and a developing postmodernism, on the other; and the feminist debate over Shepard's drama: does it reinforce a masculinist world, or does it provide some oppositional stance toward patriarchal master narratives?

The men in plays such as Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman or Sam Shepard's True West are often presented as universal. Little attention is given to the gender dynamics involved in the characters. This work looks at how contemporary playwrights, including Miller, Shepard, Eugene O'Neill, David Mamet, and August Wilson, stage masculinity in their works. It becomes apparent that male playwrights return often to the issues of troubled manhood usually masked in other issues such as war business or family the plays indicate both the attractiveness of the model of traditional masculinity and the illusive nature of this image which all too often fractures and fails the characters who pursue it o neill s play the hairy ape and the character yank receive much attention
