research paper undergraduate from the year 2006 in the subject english language and literature studies literature language english abstract the sweeping assertion once a rebel always a rebel soliloquised by alan sillitoe s character arthur seaton in saturday night and sunday morning published in 1958 echoes the dissent of the angry young men of the late fifties and sixties in britain and functions as a binding theme and narrative strategy yoking together the different fragments of the novel the purpose of this paper is to study the various aspects of the anti hero s dissenting action assess the limits of his rebellion and eventually relate the complexity of the narrative to a larger corpus of literature that is more likely to be dubbed literature of dissent rather than literature of exhaustion john barth 70 83 although sillitoe s novel may partake of both such subversive trends typical of post war british literature permeate a wide spectrum of working class ethics ranging from mere industrial dissent to more life enhancing assent the ultimate purpose of such literary representation of modern life in britain is to question at the same time the bourgeois standards of profitability and the controversial identity of the marginally subversive working class anti hero trapped between hope and despair revolt and submission a lively and stimulating resource for all first year students of human geography this introductory reader comprises key published writings from the main fields of human geography because the subject is both broad and necessarily only loosely defined a principal aim of this book is to present a view of the subject which is theoretically informed and yet recognises that any view is partial contingent and subject to change the extracts selected are accessible and raise issues of method and theory as well as fact the editors have chosen articles that not only represent main currents in the present flow of academic geography but which are also responsive to developments outside of the discipline their selection contains a mixture of established and recent writings and each section features a contextualizing introduction and detailed suggestions for further reading this book updates our understanding of working class fiction by focusing on its continued relevance to the social and intellectual contexts of the age of trump and brexit the volume draws together new and established scholars in the field whose intersectional analyses use postcolonial and feminist ideas amongst others to explore key theoretical approaches to working class writing and discuss works by a range of authors including ethel carnie holdsworth jack hilton mulk raj anand simon blumenfeld pat barker gordon burn and zadie smith a key informing argument is not only that working class writing shows working class to be a diverse and dynamic rather than monolithic category but also that a greater critical attention to class and the working class in particular extends both the methods and objects of literary studies this collection will appeal to students scholars and academics interested in working class writing and the need to diversify the curriculum british films of the 1960s are undervalued their search for realism has often been dismissed as drabness and their more frivolous efforts can now appear just empty headed robert murphy s sixties british cinema is the first study to challenge this view he shows that the realist tradition of the late 50s and early 60s was anything but dreary and depressing and gave birth to a clutch of films remarkable for their confidence and vitality saturday night and sunday morning a kind of loving and a taste of honey are only the better known titles sixties british cinema revalues key genres of the period horror crime and comedy and takes a fresh look at the swinging london films finding disturbing undertones that reflect the cultural changes of the decade now that our cinematic past is constantly recycled on television murphy s informative engaging and perceptive review of these films and their cultural and industrial context offers an invaluable guide to this neglected era of british cinema for at least a century scholarship on realist narrative and occasional polemics against realist narrative have assumed that realism promotes the values of sameness against those of otherness and that it does so by use of a narrative mode that excludes certain epistemologies ideologies and ways of thinking however the truth is more complex than that as the essays in this volume all demonstrate realism s others examines the various strategies by which realist narratives create the idea of difference whether that difference is registered in terms of class ethnicity epistemology nationality or gender the authors in this collection examine in detail not just the fact of otherness in some canonical realist and canonical magical realist and postmodern novels but the actual means by which that otherness is established by the text these essays suggest that neither realist narrative nor narratives positioned as anti realist take otherness for granted rather the texts discussed here actively create difference and this creation of difference often occasions severe difficulties for the novels representational schema how does one represent different types of knowledge other aesthetic modes or other spaces for example in texts whose epistemology has long been seen as secular and empirical whose aesthetic mode has always been approached as pure descriptive mimesis and whose settings are largely domestic these essays all begin with a certain collision of nationalities of classes of representational matrices of religions and go on to chart the challenges that this collision presents to our ideas or stereotypes of realism or to the possibilities of writing against and beyond realism this question motivates examination of key realist or social realist texts in some of these essays by honoré de balzac george eliot franz grillparzer theodor storm gottfried keller theodor fontane wilhelm raabe maría amparo ruiz de burton henry james william dean howells charles chesnutt theodore dreiser h t tsiang alan sillitoe and richard yates however it is no less central a question in certain non realist texts which engage realist aims to a surprising degree often to debate them openly some of these essays discuss in this light fantastic magical realist and postmodern works by abram tertz paul auster alejo carpentier toni morrison gabriel garcía márquez salman rushdie and a s byatt realism becomes more than an aesthetic aim or narrative mode it becomes rather a value evoked and discussed by all of the works analyzed here in order to reveal its impact on fiction s treatment of ethnicity nationality ideology space gender and social class
