this major new textbook offers an accessible introduction to many of the most interesting areas in the study of multilingualism it consists of twelve lectures written by leading researchers each dedicated to a particular topic of importance each lecture offers a state of the art authoritative review of a subdiscipline of the field the volume sheds light on the ways in which the use and acquisition of languages are changing providing new insights into the nature of contemporary multilingualism it will be of interest both to undergraduate and postgraduate students working in linguistics related disciplines and students in associated social sciences revolutionary subjects explores the literary and cultural significance of cold war solidarities and offers insight into a substantial and under analyzed body of german literature concerned with latin american thought and action it shows how literary interest in latin america was vital for understanding oppositional agency and engaged literature in east and west germany where authors developed aesthetic solidarities that anticipated conceptual reorganizations of the world connoted by the transnational or the global through a combination of close readings contextual analysis and careful theoretical work revolutionary subjects traces the historicity and contingency of aesthetic practices as well as the geocultural grounds against which they unfolded in case studies of volker braun f c delius hans magnus enzensberger and heiner müller the book s cultural and comparative approach offers an antidote to imprecise engagements with the transnational historicizing critical impulses that accompany the production of disciplinary boundaries it paves the way for more reflexive debate on the content and method of german studies as part of a broader landscape of world literature comparative literature and latin american studies the writings of hans magnus enzensberger are a provocative commentary on the post 1945 period in germany poet and essayist of international standing and frequent contributor to political and cultural debates his work has accompanied the development of the federal republic from the 1950s to german unification and after this study makes explicit the links between enzensberger s literary imagination and the cultural and political history of germany and offers a close reading of both enzensberger s poetry and his seminal essays on politics and culture proposing that they be considered as part of a single artistic project the book argues that enzensberger s significance lies in his sustained exploration of the relationship between literary and cultural practices and political democracy in germany it offers detailed analyses of enzensberger s poetry and considers his essays on the consciousness industry and on the constituents of a theory of the media in the context of the political development of the federal republic in the half century following 1945 post world war 2 essays on cinema and television on tourism consumption and migration and on digital media and the future of literature are also considered and analysed Adorno's work is situated as part of an ongoing critical debate between him and key intellectual figures such as Theodor W. Adorno, Walter Benjamin, Siegfried Kracauer, Jürgen Habermas, Jean Baudrillard and Michel Foucault.

A union list of serials commencing publication after Dec 31 1949

Germany's unique historical experience of undergoing national unification twice in a little over a century makes it a fascinating object of study. In this volume the processes of unification are analysed from the point of view of historians, political scientists and literary historians because each event had quite different historical pre-conditions, the first having been long anticipated and pursued whereas the second took virtually all participants by surprise. The processes of adjustment to it have differed in many ways yet in each case the idea of national unity has held sway powerfully as a norm guiding the responses of those involved.

Written by over seventy scientists and clinicians worldwide from China, USA, Germany, Canada, Japan and other countries, this monograph with nearly 450 figures and tables covers a wide range of advanced progress in acupuncture research from experimental research to clinical applications. In addition to exploring the histopathological basis for acupuncture and mathematical simulation of acupoint response to stimulation, initiation and transduction of acupuncture signals and cellular mechanisms during acupuncture effects as well as chemical and physical characteristics of moxibustion on acupoints are broadly discussed. The topics also include novel data on acupuncture effect with advanced imaging techniques, a unique understanding of meridian-viscera correlation, specific interactions between meridians and neurosensory organs within the system of homeostatic regulation and the acupuncture-induced influences on autonomic function. Several chapters introduce specific approaches with dry needling, silver needling and stainless steel needling for certain diseases such as myofascitis, supportive care for breast cancer and chemotherapy-induced peripheral neuropathy as well as perioperative care of surgical patients. Moreover, this book discusses recent research on acupuncture therapy and potential mechanisms for a number of severe and refractory neurological disorders including hyperactivity of hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal axis, orofacial pain, chronic pain, itch, multiple sclerosis, autism spectrum disorders, cerebral palsy, depressive disorders, Alzheimer's disease and ischemic brain injury. The vast amount of information offered in this book provides a comprehensive perspective on advanced acupuncture research to not only acupuncturists but also to neuroscientists, neurologists and other clinicians. For medical students and graduate and undergraduate students majoring in biology, physiology and neuroscience, this book offers an advanced course in learning about the mechanism driven advances in alternative and complementary medicine
