based on diaries and email correspondence that she kept from 1981 2004 here suad amiry evokes daily life in the west bank town of ramallah a literary protest done with great wit skill and passion not only is it really funny but it shows the kind of courage vision and humanity needed to bring peace to the middle east eve ensler author of the vagina monologues capturing the frustrations cabin fever and downright misery of her experiences amiry writes with elegance and humor about the enormous difficulty of moving from one place to another the torture of falling in love with someone from another town the absurdity of her dog receiving a jerusalem identity card when thousands of palestinians could not and the trials of having her ninety two year old mother in law living in her house during a forty two day curfew with a wickedly sharp ear for dialogue and a keen eye for detail amiry gives us an original ironic and firsthand glimpse into the absurdity and agony of life in the occupied territories the third instalment in jonathan king s acclaimed world war 1 centennial trilogy in the history of the world there never was a greater victory than that which was achieved in palestine prime minister billy hughes addressing the australian parliament in 1919 culminating with the cavalry charge at beersheba on 31 october 1917 palestine diaries is the story of australia s light horsemen of world war i told in their own brutally honest words day by day battle after bloody battle one hundred years after that now legendary battle widely considered the last great cavalry charge dr jonathan king argues that the breathtaking achievement of the 4th light horse brigade should become the cornerstone of our national identity the soldiers in these pages were the first to achieve incredible victories for their new nation ahead of the western front and unlike the defeats of gallipoli these young australians helped demolish the centuries old ottoman empire by driving the turks from the strategic suez canal across the sinai and up through palestine jordan and syria to be first into the enemy stronghold of damascus a victory that would not only change the course of the war but would also plant the seeds of the modern middle eastern conflicts published together here many for the first time are the diaries letters and photos of those brave young men whose service and sacrifice helped shape a nation this edited collection brings together discussions of literary works from israel the occupied palestinian territories the palestinian and jewish diasporas as well as from authors and creators not directly involved with the conflict who are seeking to unpack its complexities for a wider audience it offers new perspectives into how the palestine israel conflict is and can be represented after the second palestinian intifada an epochal event for both israelis and palestinians this collection foregrounds the thematic concerns that link literary engagements with palestine israel across the globe but also examines the role that aesthetic representation plays in framing the conflict and its power dynamics it addresses how emergent forms of writing and representation illuminate but also redescribe conflict in the context of israel and palestine and how as in the case of the investigative graphic novel for example depicting this conflict has had reverberations for representing conflict and conflict zones more widely isabelle hesse identifies an important relational turn in british and german literature tv drama and film published and produced since the first palestinian intifada 1987 1993 this turn manifests itself on two levels one in representing israeli and palestinian histories and narratives as connected rather than separate and two by emphasising the links between the current situation in israel and the occupied palestinian territories and the roles that the united kingdom and germany have played historically and continue to play in the region this relational turn constitutes a significant shift in representations of israel and palestine in british and german culture as these depictions move beyond an engagement with the holocaust and jewish suffering at the expense of palestinian suffering and indicate a willingness to represent and acknowledge british and german involvement in israeli and palestinian politics this book offers new ways of thinking about how israel and palestine are imagined and reimagined as topics of cultural and political interest in two countries that have had complicated histories with both israel and palestine histories which are marked by each country s memories of the holocaust and colonialism negotiating palestinian womanhood encounters between palestinian women and american missionaries 1880s 1940s is the first analytical study to examine the american quaker educational enterprise in palestine since its establishment in the late nineteenth century during the ottoman rule and into the british mandate period this book uses the friends girls school as a site of interaction between arab and american cultures to uncover how quaker education was received translated internalized and responded to by palestinian students in order to change their position within their society s structural power relations it examines the influence of quaker education on palestinian women s views of gender and nationalism quaker education in addition to ongoing social and political transformations produced mixed results in which many palestinian women showed emancipatory desires to change their roles and responsibilities in either radical moderate or conservative ways as many of their writings in the 1920s and 1930s illustrate quaker ideals of internationalism peace and nonviolent means in conflict resolution influenced the students advocacy for cultural nationalism arab unity across tribal and religious lines and responsible citizenship drawing on autobiographical and postcolonial theories hiyem cheurfa examines twenty first century arab women s life writing as sites for the articulation of resistance to power structures and sociocultural and representational norms looking comparatively at subgenres of memoir auto portrait testimony diary and digital life writing across different linguistic arabophone anglophone and francophone and national contexts egypt algeria syria palestine tunisia this book explores why resistance is important when writing about the self for arab women a moving account of the dispossessed children of palestine and the transformative power that music has had in giving them meaning and reason for hope reza aslan moving tolan is a scrupulous craftsman los angeles times it is an unlikely story ramzi hussein aburedwan a child from a palestinian refugee camp confronts an occupying army gets an education masters an instrument dreams of something much bigger than himself and then through his charisma and persistence inspires others to work with him to make that dream real the dream a school to transform the lives of thousands of children as ramzi s life was transformed through music musicians from all over the world came to help a violist left the london symphony orchestra in part to work with ramzi at his new school daniel barenboim the eminent israeli conductor invited ramzi to join his west eastern divan orchestra which he founded with the late palestinian intellectual edward said since then the two have played together frequently children of the stone chronicles ramzi s journey from stone thrower to music student to school founder and shows how through his love of music he created something lasting and beautiful in a land torn by violence and war this is a story about the power of music but also about freedom and conflict determination and vision it s a vivid portrait of life amid checkpoints and military occupation a growing movement of nonviolent resistance the prospects of musical collaboration across the israeli palestinian divide and the potential of music to help children everywhere see new possibilities for their lives

a quarterly on palestinian affairs and the arab israeli conflict from the creators of the assassin s cloak comes an anthology of powerful and sometimes surprising daily wartime diary entries from war fronts throughout history the war diaries brings together in their own words the stories of men and women who have endured life at its most intense and dangerous by turns horrific and comic the entries retain the candid intimacy that is the particular preserve of those who keep diaries from che guevara virginia woolf and davy crockett to anonymous soldiers in the trenches these poignant and intense missives capture the immediacy horror and pathos of wars that span the centuries with a remarkable cross section of contributors josef goebbels anaïs nin florence nightingale samuel pepys and salam pax to name just a few irene and alan taylor bring unprecedented insight into what has been described as the most exciting and dramatic thing in life and the universal perversion war this book is a unique gift for history enthusiasts everywhere
