mary grace soccio my writing could not please this kindhearted woman no matter how hard i tried although gifed and talented seventh grade math posed no problem for me the same was not true for mrs soccio s english class i was frustrated that my frst assignment only netted me a c i worked harder making re sion afer revision a concept i had never really put much faith in before at last i produced an essay that seemed the apex of what i was capable of writing although the topic of that essay is now lost to my memory the grade i received was not a b the best i could do was a b the realization sank in that maybe i was not such a good writer in those days my youthful hubris did not understand about capacity being in other words being challenged would result in my intellectual growth an academic restatement of nietzsche's what does not destroy me makes me stronger consequently i asked to be withdrawn from gifted and talented english in the eighth grade with the publication in english in 1930 of civilization and its discontents and its thesis that instinct and ultimately nature had been and must be forever subordinated in order that civilization might thrive and endure freud contributed what some contemporaries saw to the central debate of his era a debate which had long preoccupied both official american pundits and the american populace at large at the beginning of the new millennium evidence abounds that an american debate still rages over the meaning of nature the rightful weight of instinct and the status of civilization the millennium itself has appeared in popular and official discourses as an appropriate marker of an age in which nature is close to the edge of radical extinction and has also become more and more unreliable as a paradigm for representation and debate at the same time the contemporary tailoring of nature to postmodern needs and expectations inevitably reveals the conceptual difficulty of any possible simple opposition between nature and culture as if they were clearly distinguishable domains if nature then can clearly be seen as a discursive concept it may also be a timeless concept insofar that it has been shaped created and used at all times every epoch age and era had its own nature with myth history and ideology as its dominant shaping forces from the frontier to cyberia nature has been suffering the agony of the real resurfacing in discursive strategies and demonstrating a powerful impact on american society culture and self definition the essays in this collection speak critically of the natural and examine the american debate in the many guises it has assumed over the last century within the context of major critical approaches psychoanalytical concepts and postmodern theorizing the book is intended to provide a definitive view of the field of humor research for both beginning and established scholars in a variety of fields who are developing an interest in humor and need to familiarize themselves with the available body of knowledge each chapter of the book is devoted to an important aspect of humor research or to a disciplinary approach to the field and each is written by the leading expert or emerging scholar in that area there are two primary motivations for the book the positive one is to collect and summarize the impressive body of knowledge accumulated in humor research in and around humor the international journal of humor research the negative motivation is to prevent the embarrassment to and from the first timers often established experts in their own field who venture into humor research without any notion that there already exists a body of knowledge they need to acquire before publishing anything on the subject unless they are in the business of reinventing the wheel and have serious doubts about its being round the organization of the book reflects the main groups of scholars participating in the increasingly popular and high powered humor research movement throughout the world an 800 to 1 000 strong contingent and growing the chapters are organized along the same lines history research issues main directions current situation possible future bibliography and use the authors definitive credentials not to promote an individual view but rather to give the reader a good comprehensive and condensed view of the area

paul butler applauds the emerging interest in the study of style among scholars of rhetoric and composition arguing that the loss of stylistics from composition in recent decades left it alive only in the popular imagination as a set of grammar conventions butler s goal in out of style is to articulate style as a vital and productive source of invention and to redefine its importance for current research theory and pedagogy scholars in composition know that the ideas about writing most common in the discourse of public intellectuals are egregiously backward without a vital approach to stylistics butler argues writing studies will never dislodge the controlling fantasies of self authorized pundits in the nation s intellectual press rhetoric and composition must answer with a public discourse that is responsive to readers ongoing interest in style but is also grounded in composition theory
