when writing this book we tried to create a material that would serve as a comprehensive guide to the world of computer hardware our goal was to offer readers not only theoretical knowledge but also practical skills that can be used in real situations we believe that this textbook will be useful not only for high school students but also for the general public who are interested in technologies and their applications when creating the content we were based on many years of experience in education and practice in the field of information technology we tried to cover a wide range of topics from basic components of a personal computer to more complex issues such as overclocking microprocessors or configuring raid systems each topic is supplemented with practical examples and exercises that help to better understand the given issue this book offers a fine grained analysis of the most common ingressive and egressive verbs in present day english in terms of the semantic pragmatic and cognitive factors responsible for their various structural representations it draws upon the fundamental assumptions of cognitive linguistics according to which grammar is symbolic and conceptually motivated and focuses in particular on the ability of these predicates to be integrated into constructions as a result of metonymic and metaphoric processes which impose a well defined set of constraints the book supports its analysis and findings with examples both taken from three of the major corpora of english namely bnc coca and glowbe and retrieved through ad hoc internet searches although the literature on english aspectual verbs is vast there are no studies of the language external factors responsible for their different configurations as such this book fills this gap by offering linguists and students of linguistics a detailed investigation of this topic it will also be of value to scholars with a more general interest in the linguistic evidence of cognitive activity in meaning construction
